Tree Growers See New Soil Prep Methods

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Editor

POTTSTOWN (Chester Co.) - In the scenic forested hills east of Elverson, nearly 100 tree farmers, agribusiness representatives, and extension educators gathered Tuesday afternoon for the Southeast Regional Christmas Tree Growers meeting.

Westlake Tree Farms along North Hill Camp Road and the department of horticulture at Penn State represented by George Perry, Jr., multi-county extension horticulture agent based in Schuylkill County, hosted the meeting. Credits needed to update grower's pesticide license were given.

The program featured some of the new practices Westlake has incorporated into their operation to better prepare the soil for tree planting. "If the soil is not prepared correctly, if it is not right, you may as well not put the trees in the ground," Gary Westlake owner said. "Since we deal with a long-term crop we need to prepare the soil to accommodate this. We like to start with a clean field. And you need to deal with areas that lack percolation even on the top of the hill."

For Westlake a new "spader" machine imported from Holland is the answer. The demonstration of the machine showed how it is used as both a primary and a secondary vehicle to prepare the soil. The 16-inch deep soil preparation action allows for a one-pass process. In addition, the tree farm is experimenting with buckwheat planted in summer and spaded down with the new machine in the fall. The green growth expected to be 2-feet tall at the time it is incorporated into the soil will help prevent soil erosion and add the herbicidal characteristic buckwheat is reported to have.

"We have been farming a horticultural crop with agronomic methods," Westlake said. "Augers have been used to dig

Horse Progress Days Photo Report

Horse Progress Days, a takeoff on Ag Progress Days each summer at Rockspring, was conducted last week at Kinzers in Lancaster County. This event, which draws international visitors, is proof of the strong revival of small farm enterprises where old-fashioned ways to farm have become new. 'Beef Made Easy' Brings Convenience To The Case For Today's Consumers MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — It happens every day. A customer wheels the shopping cart to the meat case, looks bleakly at the sea of red before them, attempts to decipher the difference between cuts and how to cook them, and finally heads off to find frozen pizza for dinner.

Fortunately for today's consumers, however, the new "Beef Made Easy" program will make meat buying and preparing more straightforward.

The program rearranges the meat case by cooking method. Each section includes color-coded labels for steaks for grilling, marinating, sauteing, braising, stewing, and stir frying, besides pot roasts, oven roasts, and ground beef. Corresponding rail strips, case dividers, and color-coded pictures help to separate the cuts. The peel-off label also features cooking and freezing instructions. In addition customers can find both recipes and colorful brochures which explain the program in some meat cases.

Lancaster County Harvest Scene

The extra rainfall this year has the countryside looking growthy. According the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, pastures are growing well and providing good feed for the graziers. But the same weather made haymaking difficult to get it into the barn without getting wet. The corn is growing well, although some low-lying areas are overly moist. Barley harvest is well under way. The wheat heads are bending down with grain. Here, this Lancaster County farmer provides a scenic view with shocks of wheat waiting for thrashing day. The photo was taken by Everett Newswanger, editor, this week along Hollander Road near Zelteneich Church.

THIS WEEK	1490	162
LAST WEEK	2011	172
LAST YEAR	1995	153

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed .50 higher. Receipts were light this week, although local markets did not close for July 4th, and light numbers were mostly responsible for the stronger market. This year's corn crop is in outstanding condition across the U. S. and has grain markets slipping and 800 lb feeder steers approaching the 90.00 level. The Western fat cattle market was not well established this past week, without any significant movement by Friday morning. Local Holstein steer prices ended the week steady. Slaughter cows continue to be very active and closed .50 higher, with slaughter bulls selling 1.00 higher. Supply included 45 pct slaughter steers, 9 pct slaughter heifers, 39 pct slaughter cows, 5 pct slaughter bulls, with the balance mostly feeders.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1145-1455 lbs 70.85-74.35, few singles up to 78.00. Choice 2-3 1130-1470 lbs 69.50-71.85, high dressing 1-2 up to 75.75. Select and low Choice 2-3 1040-1575 lbs 65.50-70.00. Select 1-3 1010-1505 lbs 63.00-67.75.

HOLSTEIN STEERS: Choice, few Prime 2-3 1235-1650 lbs 60.60-63.35. Select and low Choice 2-3 1115-1530 lbs 57.25-60.50, calf-feds 930-1055 lbs 56.25-58.25. Select 1-2 1160-1490 lbs 53.50-57.50.

CALVES: Compared to last week, veal calves closed firm to 7.00 higher and the larger slaughter calves ended steady to 10.00 higher. Holstein bulls returning to special-fed veal barns sold 13.00 higher than last week's close. The bull calf market has stabilized at this level and is much more predictable than it has been for months. Holstein heifers turned active late in the week and ended 20.00-30.00 higher.

Report Supplied By USDA

EGGS, JUNE 30, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Majority prices were unchanged on salt yolk, balance of items were generally unchanged to slightly lower when compared to a week earlier. Short term interest was inactive, although some additional inquiry was developing in spot locations. Supplies were irregular, but mostly adequate for immediate trade needs. Undertone was mixed and unsettled. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending June 24, 2000 were 4 % less than last week, and 10 % less than a year ago. USDA-AMS purchased 1,024,000 lbs. of pasteurized whole eggs to be delivered Aug. 1 to Aug. 15.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER
PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was very quiet following the fair holiday business. Offerings were generally adequate to ample with wings and tenders receiving the best interest. Breast items were usually more than adequate and most dealers found it unnecessary to purchase product. Retail and distributive movement was slow to no better than moderate. The market tone remained steady at best.

JULY 10-16, 2000

FULL THUNDER MOON, JULY 16.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING!

Think of thunderstorms as Mother Earth's air-conditioning. Heat from Earth's surface is pumped upward into the atmosphere where it is released, cooling the air. Meanwhile, the rains cleanse the air and distribute much-needed water to dry areas. Imagine how different our climate would be without these storms. It's estimated that approximately 16 million thunderstorms occur worldwide every year. The more violent ones can carry hail, cause lightning fires, or even turn into raging tornadoes. The Norse god Thor, Chinese Lei Kung, and Native American Thunderbird were all blamed for creating thunder, but the rains were generally welcomed.

TIP OF THE WEEK

TOMATO ASPIC

4 cups tomato juice, divided
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 bay leaves
4 whole peppercorns
4 cardamom seeds (or 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg)
pinch of cayenne pepper
2 packages (3 ounces each) plain or lemon gelatin watercress or lettuce, as garnish juice to gelatin, and stir to dissolve. Add remaining juice, and pour into a 1-quart mold or 8x8-inch pan. Chill until firm (at least 2 hours), then unmold. Serve over greens, plain, or with a blue cheese or other dressing.

Makes 8 servings.

Heat half the tomato juice to a boil and add seasonings. Simmer for 5 minutes and strain. Add strained

When Prissels decided to expand their dairy operation, they also wanted to milk available tax advantages.

Randy, Brian, Scott and Dennis Prissel, Prissel Valley Farms, Durand, Wisconsin

Prissels chose a "True Tax" lease. In fact, they leased a milking parlor, free stall barns, silos and other farm equipment. Along with fixed and 100% tax deductible lease payments, the leases protected their equity ratios by providing off balance sheet financing.

They chose Telmark for its knowledge of the dairy industry, service and reputation for financing. They also enjoyed working with their Telmark representative who personally knows the ups and downs of farming.

By financing with a lease, terms were kept to a minimum, allowing for the continued growth of the

What Flag Is Flying Over Your Dairy?

If you have watched a car race for any length of time, you know that no one is more important to the race than the flagman in the tower. His job is to monitor the track for problems and if a problem develops, he has to fly a different colored flag to let the drivers know that a problem exists ahead. The driver depends on the flagman to warn him of problems, because he is concentrating so hard on "the windshield view" — the challenges that are directly in front of him.

What view do you have in managing your dairy? Do you have the "long view" of the flagman, or do you operate week after week with the short-sighted "windshield view" of the driver? The flagman at a race is looking for situations that are very apparent — accidents, breakdowns, etc. As the "flagman" for your dairy, what you need to look for may not be so obvious. Following are some items that will help you to measure whether the "race" is running well at your dairy. These factors are related directly to your profitability, and can signal some hidden problems with your nutritional program. Your nutritional consultant should be monitoring these control points with you every month. If they are not doing this, I encourage you to start tracking these indicators.

Peak Milk — In first lactation Holsteins — should be higher than 85 pounds.

In second lactation and older Holsteins — should be higher than 105 pounds.

Remember the old rule — for each extra one pound of milk at peak, you get 250 pounds more milk during the lactation (this is without bST).

Persistence — First calf heifers — lactations should be at 95 percent persistence.

From the first to the second test, the herd should average 110 percent persistence.

All cows in the first 100 days should average 100 percent persistence.

Udder Health — 70 percent of your herd should have a weighted SCC score of three or less.

Milk Components:

Milkfat %

Monitoring these factors will help to assure that the green flag continues to fly over your dairy — and that the race for producing quality milk in a profitable manner continues in your business.

Now Is The Time

To Be Aware Of Potato Leafhoppers
Potato leafhoppers have been reported feeding on alfalfa in Lancaster County, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

Each year these small, green insects reach Lancaster from overwintering populations in the South. Once established in an alfalfa field, their populations can increase rapidly. Both the adult leafhopper and nymph cause feeding damage.

Scouting fields on a weekly basis can help prevent significant forage and yield losses this little pest causes. The first visual sign of damage is often yellowing of the alfalfa leaf, especially on new growth. The brassy yellowing often occurs in a V-shaped wedge and is referred to as hopper burn.

Often by the time the yellowing is noticed, significant losses have already occurred.

Severe damage causes stunted plants with shortened internodes. Stunting and leaf loss results in the loss of quantity and quality hay. Under severe feeding pressure, an entire cutting of hay may be lost.

In addition, severe feeding reduces plant vigor and reduces winter hardiness. Stunted alfalfa allows light penetration into the canopy and encourages weed growth.

To Scout For Potato Leafhoppers

As alfalfa is cut, the potato leafhopper will move to adjoining fields. The regrowth of cuttings must be scouted carefully.

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent, reminds us that large populations of leafhoppers moving from a cut field to the new growth of an adjacent field can cause considerable damage.

Fields should be scouted on a regular basis (every 5 to 7 days). Begin checking new growth immediately after harvest. Use a sweep net, taking 20 sweeps in five different areas of each field. Average the number of leafhoppers and nymphs per sweep. For hay less than 10 inches tall, consider an insecticide application if more than 0.1 leafhoppers is found per sweep. If hay is more than 10 inches tall, consider an insecticide application if two or more leafhoppers are found per sweep.

To Be Safe Around Grain Bins

Although automated equipment has made the storage and handling of grain faster and easier than ever, the storage structures and handling equipment create hazardous work areas.

Farm workers should make sure they take the proper steps to prevent illnesses, injuries, and death. Label grain bins to warn of the hazards of entrapment. Lock entrances to grain handling areas to keep bystanders and children out. Install ladders inside bins. Do not enter bins that are being loaded or unloaded.

Flowing grain can trap and suffocate you in seconds. If it is necessary to enter a bin, shut off and lock out power before entering.

Use a safety harness and a safety line. Have several people outside who can lift a person out of the bin.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Well done is better than well said." — Ben Franklin.

WHOM DO YOU FOLLOW?

Background Scripture:

Ephesians 2.

Devotional Reading:

John 17:1-11, 20-23.

I am writing this on a train traveling from Vevey, Switzerland to Verona, Italy. It is a Sunday, and I feel the strangeness of not getting ready for our Sunday school class and worship in downtown Dallas, Texas.

Along the way we see the towers and spires of many churches where presumably Christians are assembling according to their own custom. Then I begin to wonder how many of the other travelers on our train are also fellow Christians.

If Valere and I got off at the next stop and entered the nearest church, would we feel a part of this congregation, or like strangers?

Have you ever noticed that, outside your own congregation, you may feel little sense of identification with other Christians? Presbyterians may feel they have little in common with Baptists. Protestants may find it difficult to think of Roman Catholics and Orthodox as brothers and sisters in Christ — and vice versa.

Why is it that, although we confess the same Lord, we do not feel much of a connection with other Christians? Perhaps it is because our God is too small, our Christ is too narrow, and our churches too parochial. Maybe what we believe about Christ actually erects walls between us and other followers.

While I would never say that what we believe is not important, nevertheless I would remind you that belief and faith are not identical — and the greatest of these is not our beliefs, but whom we follow. James reminds us that "You believe that God is one; you do well. Even the demons believe — and shudder" (James 2:19). You may believe in Jesus Christ, but that does not necessarily mean that you follow him.

Sons Of Disobedience

Ephesians puts the emphasis upon following, noting that before becoming Christians, his readers followed "the course of the world, following the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work in the sons of disobedience. Among these we all once lived in the passions of our flesh, following the desires of the body and mind and so were by nature children of wrath, like the rest of mankind" (2:2,3).

I have called myself "a Christian" as long as I can remember. Yet, although I am certainly a Christian in my beliefs, I am sometimes not Christian in my discipleship. Instead of living as a child of God in Christ, I find that I am living as one of the "children of wrath."

Perhaps that may also be true of you sometimes — when your loyalty, your behavior, and attitudes are those of the world, not of Christ, so that you continue to be a "stranger far off." Whenever your politics, economic status, social standing, race, skin color or sex are more important to you than the teachings and spirit of Christ, you are still living as "strangers and sojourners" instead of "fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God . . ." (2:19).

Ah, yes, you may reply, but Ephesians assures us that we are "saved through faith; and that is not our own doing, it is the gift of God — not because of works . . ." (2:18,19).

Yes, it is true that the chasm between our good works and the favor of God is too great for us to bridge. A good work for each minute of the day for every year of our whole lives cannot bridge that chasm. It most certainly is "the gift of God."

Where They Fit In

In the next sentence, however, we find just where good works fit in: "For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them" (2:10, my italics).

Good works cannot save us, but neither can we claim God's gift if we do not proclaim our gratitude through good works. They are simply the by-product of following Jesus Christ, trying to incarnate in our lives his example, living by his teachings and commandments.

Christians sometimes build walls that continue to make strangers of other children of God. But Christ is a wall-breaker — "he . . . has made us both one and had broken down the dividing wall of hostility . . ." (2:14). If you either build walls or let them divide the household of God, you may possibly believe in Christ, but you are not following him.

So take a good, hard look at your life. Is it Christ you are following?

USDA Proposes Fee Increase To Grade Processed Fruits, Vegetables

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA is proposing to increase the hourly fees charged for its voluntary processed fruit and vegetable inspection, grading, and certification services. Current fees have been in effect since Oct. 4, 1998.

The increases are necessary to offset increases in employee salaries and inflation, and to maintain the fiscal stability of the program.

The proposal would raise the basic hourly rate charged to users who have not signed term contracts for AMS services from the current hourly rate of $43 to $47.

The proposal would also raise the current hourly rate for year-round in-plant contract services from $35 to $36. The current hourly rate of $45 for less than year-round in-plant contract service would be raised to $48.

The in-plant sampler hourly rate of $22 will remain unchanged.

USDA's voluntary processed fruit and vegetable inspection, grading, and certification services are provided to applicants nationwide on a fee-for-service basis, which is required by law to be approximately equal to the cost of providing services.

The proposed fee increase will appear in today's Federal Register. Comments, in duplicate should be sent, postmarked no later than Aug. 28, to the Office of the Branch Chief, AMS Fruit and Vegetable Programs, USDA STOP 0247, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456. For any additional information, contact James R. Rodeheaver, branch chief, at the same address, (202) 720-4693.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

By Ken Bailey
Penn State University
June 30, 2000

Markets Show Improvement!

- Cheese prices higher
- NASS survey prices better
- June class and component prices released
- Commercial disappearance remains strong

Good news for dairy farmers!

The commodity markets are showing signs of real price strength. This after months of languishing at support levels.

Hot and humid weather across much of the U.S. has depressed milk production per cow, and that has improved the outlook for cheese prices.

At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, the price of 40-lb block cheese rose from a weekly average of $1.2040 the week ending June 16 to $1.2620 the week ending June 30. Barrel

Horse Progress Days Show Old Fashioned Ways To Farm Have Become New

KINZERS (Lancaster Co.) - Thousands of draft horse lovers gathered last week at Rough and Tumble Museum to witness Horse Progress Days in progress. When the roll was called Friday morning, visitors from around the world checked in with the announcer to let every one present know this was an international event. Horse Progress Days aims to present the newest complete line of machinery for horses and is patterned after the tractor equipment, research and educational Ag Progress Days held each summer at Rock Springs in Center County. Of course, Amish farmers play a big part in the comeback of the use of draft horses in farming. But obviously, the growing popularity of small farm farming has added to this niche market for horse-drawn machinery. While doing it the old fashioned way has a nostalgic attraction, Horse Progress Days proved this old fashioned way to farm has become new and quite modern. Here is a picture composite of what the camera saw Friday morning. Photos by Everett Newswanger, editor

World Dairy Expo Names 2000 Judges

MADISON, Wis. — World Dairy Expo names eight industry representatives and producers as official judges for the 2000 show scheduled for October 4-8 at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wisconsin. The dairy cattle show judges were nominated by last year's dairy cattle exhibitors and/or breed associations and ratified by Expo's board of directors. Judging the almost 2,000 head of cattle will be: Ayrshire — Wayne Sliker, St. Paris, Ohio; Brown Swiss — Brian Garrison, Tiffin, Ohio; Brown Swiss Associate — Steve White, New Castle, Indiana; Guernsey — Blaine Crosser, Marysville, Ohio; Holstein — Chris Hill, Mt. Airy, Maryland; Holstein Associate —

Gerald Coughlin, Jr., Peterborough, Ontario, Canada; Jersey — Larry Schirm, Columbus, Ohio; Milking Shorthorn — Brian Garrison, Tiffin, Ohio; and Red & White Callum McKinven, Melbourne, Quebec, Canada.

Central National Ayrshire Show: Wayne Sliker

Wayne Sliker and his wife, Connie, own and operate Top Acres Brown Swiss and Modern Associates Cattle Sales. Top Acres maintains about 150-registered Brown Swiss and a smaller select group of Holsteins near St. Paris, Ohio. The herd is very active in showing and promotion with 92 All-Americans and 86 Reserve All-Americans which leads the all-time list for Brown Swiss exhibitors. Eleven National Total Performance Winners have been developed at Top Acres. The herd's 89.4 classification average ranks first among the larger herds of the breed. In recent years, Top Acres has placed 78 sires in A.I. service as well as merchandised cattle and embryos across the country and around the globe.

Central National Brown Swiss Show: Brian Garrison

Brian Garrison is a Sire Analyst for ABS Global. A member of the Holstein Association American's Type Committee, Garrison has served a judge or associate judge at many shows in the U.S. This year marks the sixth and seventh time Garrison has served as the judge or associate judge at Expo. He has also judged several shows around the world including ones in the United Kingdom, Germany, Switzerland, France, Australia, Brazil, Mexico and Canada.

Central National Brown Swiss Show — Associate Judge: Steve White

A familiar face at Expo, Steve White in past years has served as the Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn official. White's judging career across the U.S., Canada and South America, spans more than 20 years and includes other national shows along with the Royal Winter Fair. Owner and operator of White Jersey Farms, a 125-head registered Jersey herd, he has a focused breeding philosophy on longevity, excellent type and great udders.

Central National Guernsey Show: Blaine Crosser

Blaine Crosser is the Vice-President of the Dairy Sire Product Line and Customer Service for Select Sires in Plain City, Ohio. His duties also include serving as their Guernsey Sire Analyst. Crosser is a member of the American Guernsey Association Type Committee and President of the Ohio Guernsey Breeders Association. He has judged several national, state, district, and local shows throughout the U.S.

International Holstein Show: Chris Hill

Chris Hill and his wife, Budgee, reside in Mt. Airy, Maryland where they own and operate MD-Hillbrook Sales and Fitting Service. Chris has been a professional fitter and auctioneer for 16 years. As a fitter, his travels have taken him to more than 40 states, Canada, Mexico and Germany. As an auctioneer he has sold various breed sales across the U.S. and occasionally works with his family's antique and estate auction company in Maryland.

International Holstein Show — Associate Judge: Gerald Coughlin Jr.

Gerald Coughlin Jr. resides in Peterborough, Ontario, Canada where he and his family own and operate Trent Valley Holsteins. Trent Valley has had several homebred successes including the All-Canadian three-year-old Trent Valley Astro Crystan and England's '97 National Champion cow. The farm has also been recognized with Canada's Master Breeder Award.

Central National Jersey Show: Larry Schirm

Larry Schirm is in charge of Alta Genetics Jersey program along with duties in the development and marketing of the Holstein sires. He has spent 18 years working for different genetics companies including Carnation, Landmark and now Alta Genetics, involved in the acquisition, development and marketing of Holsteins, Brown Swiss, and Jersey sires.

International Milking Shorthorn Show: Brian Garrison

Brian Garrison is a Sire Analyst for ABS Global. A member of the Holstein Association American's Type Committee, Garrison has served as judge or associate judge at many shows in the U.S. This year marks the sixth and seventh time Garrison has served as the judge or associate judge at Expo. He has also judged several shows around the world including ones in the United Kingdom, Germany, Switzerland, France, Australia, Brazil, Mexico and Canada.

Grand International Red & White Show: Callum McKinven

Callum McKinven is a self-employed dairy cattle buyer and seller from Melbourne, Quebec, Canada. No stranger to the Official role at World Dairy Expo, McKinven has judged the Holstein, Jersey, and Ayrshire shows in past years. He has also judged in several different countries around the world as well as numerous provincial shows in Canada and state shows in the U.S. McKinven's most notable roles, besides Expo, include placing the Franca Show (Brazil), the Hokkaido Black & White Show (Japan), the National Show (Spain), and the Holstein Show at the Royal Winter Fair (Canada).

World Dairy Expo Honors Four Dairy Industry Leaders And Producers

MADISON, Wis. — Four individuals will receive star treatment for their tremendous achievements within the dairy industry during the 2000 World Dairy Expo, October 4-8 in Madison, Wis. Honored this year will be: Dairyman of the Year — Howard Voegeli, Monticello, Wisconsin; Dairy Woman of the Year — Berneta Snider Gable, New Enterprise, Pennsylvania; International Person of the Year — Heinrich Meli, Bad Ragaz, Switzerland; and Industry Person of the Year — Miles "Mac" McCarry, Deltona, Florida.

"This year's winners are an exceptional group of people who have wholeheartedly made the dairy cow and the dairy industry their life. They are people who have guided and improved the industry, each in their own way. In doing so, they've earned the respect of their peers and World Dairy Expo," said World Dairy Expo's General Manager, Tom McKittrick.

A special presentation honoring these award winners will be held during World Dairy Expo at the 2000 Dinner With the Stars, Tuesday, October 3. World Dairy Expo's three-star sponsors along with the National Dairy Quality Award recipient will also be honored. For more information on the dinner or the show, contact World Dairy Expo at 608-224-6455.

Dairyman Excels In Sound Genetics And Leadership

The Dairyman of the Year is a well-known ambassador for the dairy industry, World Dairy Expo, and the Brown Swiss breed. Howard Voegeli, Monticello, Wis., owns Voegeli Farms, Inc. and Voegeli International, a business that markets cattle, semen, and embryos to foreign countries.

Voegeli's great-grandfather, a Swiss immigrant, founded the farm in 1854. His grandfather introduced the first registered Brown Swiss to the herd in 1895. Those animals were the foundation for today's 105-cow herd. After graduating from the University of Wisconsin in 1952, Voegeli took over the already outstanding herd, and through careful genetic selection built a herd that today boasts a 24,742-pound rolling lactation average. The herd averages 960 pounds of fat and 807 pounds of protein. His emphasis on exporting good cattle, embryos and semen has put the herd's genetics on six continents.

The herd not only excels in production, but also type. Voegeli cattle have earned 195 All-American nominations, 43 All-American awards, 44 Reserve All-American awards and 32 Honorable Mention All-American awards. The farm has had four World Dairy Expo grand champions and won the show's Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor 15 times. In 1992, Voegeli was awarded the Klusendorf award and in 1991 he was honored as Dairy Shrine's Breeder of the Year.

Being an annual exhibitor is only one small way Voegeli has supported World Dairy Expo. He was one of World Dairy Expo's founders, served on the Executive Committee and is still a member of the Board of Directors. If that weren't enough, Voegeli opens the farm to nearly 400 college and 4-H judges for a practice session the Sunday before the national contests held at World Dairy Expo.

Voegeli and his wife, Alice, have four children: Rhonda, Jacalyn, Bryan and James. Bayer, Dairy Farmers of America, Dairy Herd Management and Monsanto Dairy Business sponsor the Dairyman of the Year award.

Dairy Woman Juggles Farm,

Family And Community

The driving force behind Snider Homestead Farm near New Enterprise, Penn. is a wife, mother of two, and an exemplary role model for young dairy enthusiasts. Now Berneta Snider Gable can add the title of World Dairy Expo's Dairy Woman of the Year to her list of accomplishments.

Gable is the fifth generation to farm the 310-acre century farm. Her husband, Brad Gable, works full time with the Pennsylvania Game Commission, so she is responsible for most of the farm's management decisions and labor, including fieldwork, breeding selections and record keeping.

Her 140-plus Guernsey and Holstein herd includes 18 excellent cows and consistently ranks in the state's top 10 herds for production. In the show ring, the herd has generated many awards including several All-Americans and numerous grand and reserve champion and premier breeder and exhibitor honors at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show and the Pennsylvania Farm Show. In 1999, Snider's Opp Georgie, an aged cow, was the grand champion of the Central National Guernsey Show at (Turn to Page A23)

Ag Horizons Conference July 25

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.)

— Program topic for the upcoming Ag Horizons 2000 Conference is "The Retail Face of Farming."

The conference, scheduled July 25 at the Holiday Inn Harrisburg-Hershey in Grantville, will focus on a diversity of marketing options, including e-commerce, entertainment farming, niche marketing, and direct marketing.

Ag Horizons is designed specifically for educators in agriculture. Graduate credit at Penn State can be earned with the conference.

After a continental breakfast and registration, the program begins at 8:30 a.m. with an introduction to the retail face of agriculture by Lou Moore, Penn State professor of ag economics. Terry Kile, Weidenhammer Systems Corporation, will review e-commerce.

The subject of entertainment farming will be discussed by Janet Finney, Jack Finney Corp., and Stephen Quigley, Merry-mead Farm, Inc.

Niche marketing will be explored by Roy L. Brubaker, Tuscarora Organic Growers. Direct marketing will be the subject of a talk by Romaine Erb, Brooklawn Farm Market.

After lunch, a 1 p.m., a panel discussion will be held. A registration fee of $15 will be collected at the conference.

For more information, contact Penn State at (814) 863-0644.

World Dairy Expo. Gable is respected in and out of the show ring for her ethics, grace, and humbleness.

The Pennsylvania State University graduate annually hosts the college's dairy judging team and was awarded the Penn State Dairy Judging Service Award in 1996. She has also hosted the Pennsylvania Holstein Junior Judging School and opens the farm to area schools for Dairy Day.

In 1994, the Snider herd provided an outstanding class for the Hoard's Dairyman judging contest. Gable also provides housing for cattle owned by 4-H youth and retired neighbors. In 1998, Snider Homestead Farm was the site of the World Guernsey Conference tour. This year she hosted the National Guernsey Convention Tour.

International Dairyman Promotes Brown Swiss Breed

As a boy, the International Person of the Year spent his summers tending his family's Brown Swiss herd in the mountains of Switzerland. As an adult, Heinrich Meli became an influential diplomat for Brown Swiss breeders around the world.

After earning a masters degree in agricultural science from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich, Meli worked at the herdbook office of the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders Federation in Zug. While there, he introduced the computerized contemporary comparison progeny-testing program, which set the basis for modern selection possibilities.

In 1964, he became the Secretary of Agriculture and Public Economics for the Canton of Graubunden. He promoted the little-used practice of artificial insemination and built the Canton of Graubunden's herd into a leader of dairy cattle breeding throughout Europe.

In 1971, Meli became the general manager of the Agricultural College Plantahof, Landquart, where he also managed two training farms until his retirement in 1999. There he bred an outstanding 90-cow herd of Brown Swiss cattle that breeders from around the world travel see. Meli is also credited with being the first promoter of U.S. Brown Swiss genetics in Europe and turned the national herd into a showcase for these genetics.

Meli went on to influence the breed and the industry in 1976 when breeders unanimously elected him president of the World Brown Swiss Federation. In 1992, he became president of the commission of the Swiss Cattle Breeders Federation, a group representing all of the breeding federations and numbering more than 40,000 farmers and 1.6 million head of cattle in Switzerland. He served as secretary/treasurer for the annual meeting of the European Association for Animal Production in 1975 and organized the third and fifth annual world Brown Swiss conferences in 1986 and 1997. He promoted international semen exchange, initiated the international progeny testing of several Brown Swiss bulls and helped introduce INTERBULL to many European countries.

Industry Winner Uses His Pen And Voice To Make a Difference

World Dairy Expo's 2000 Industry Person of the Year has impacted agriculture through his writing, his teaching, and his presentations on his realistic visions for the future of the industry. Miles "Mac" McCarry is a familiar name to many in the dairy industry due to the many hats he's worn during his career.

His long resume includes Director of Public Relations for the Holstein Associations, Sales Manager for Curtiss Breeding Service, National Dairy Shrine secretary, and author of more than 100 articles for several dairy publications. As an agricultural agent in Massachusetts in the late 1940s, McCarry developed an Artificial Insemination Cooperative along with other livestock marketing programs. He also launched the first on-farm-tape-recorded radio programs and was recognized for outstanding contributions to the New England Green Pastures Contest.

At the Holstein Association, he developed such programs as "Fit for the Farm — Fit for the Market" and "Making the Certificate of Registry Mean More" through advertising and promotional campaigns. He attended many national shows and events, handling public relations duties and speaking at state and county Holstein meetings across the country.

In 1963, McCarry moved to Curtiss Breeding Service where he designed the "Complete Cow Program" and traveled extensively speaking at numerous events in the U.S., Puerto Rico and Canada. He served as the official for judging contests at Waterloo, and Columbus and Chicago and ran the intercollegiate and 4-H judging contests at World Dairy Expo.

The National Dairy Shrine had some of its most shining moments under McCarry's leadership. Membership thrived and the Shrine's permanent home in Fort Atkinson, Wis. became a reality. After retiring to Florida, he continues to work on a historical video project for Dairy Shrine conducting more than 100 oral interviews. McCarry has earned seven Dairy Shrine membership awards. He also became the first to win the Dairy Shrine's 4-E award. To date, only four people have earned this award which stands for extra, energy, effort and enthusiasm.

Legislators Tour Agricultural Businesses

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Legislative aides from the offices of Sen. Arlen Specter, Rep. George Gekas, Sen. Rick Santorum, Rep. Bud Shuster, and Rep. Tim Holden recently spent a day learning about Pennsylvania agriculture. They toured the Burkholder dairy farm in Chambersburg, and the Rice Fruit Company in Gardners to hear first hand the issues facing the agricultural production industry today. AgChoice Farm Credit sponsored the event.

"Aides and legislators, unless they are farmers today, do not really understand what agricultural production is all about and how farming is conducted," said Richard Ringer, a loan officer with AgChoice. "Likewise, farmers feel far removed from Washington and what goes on there. This day is an educational encounter for all of us."

The day quickly put to rest the idyllic myth of small farm life. "Legislators and the general public alike hold on to the American ideal of the small, family farm. Today's family farms, like the Burkholder's, are entrepreneurial and must be profitable," said Ringer.

"The days of pitch forks and bib overalls are long-since gone," said Stanley Burkholder of Burkholder Farms.

Small family productions are out of necessity evolving into expanded business ventures. Both the Burkholder and the Rice family businesses illustrate the new, bigger face of agricultural business: larger gross sales, higher risk, greater reinvestment resulting in higher debtloads, and an always uncertain bottom line.

The aides saw for themselves the complexities of agriculture production in year 2000. The Burkholders completed a major expansion in 1994 that upgraded their milking, feeding and waste management systems for greater efficiency, but more than doubled their debt load. The expansion has proven more efficient, but whether the risk will pay off remains a gamble. Profitability depends on many factors out of the Burkholders' control, factors like weather, markets and the economy.

"This business is like a poker game where you just keep anteing," said Mark Rice, of Rice

Fruit Company. Most agricultural producers feel a squeeze today. Risk is higher, but the pay-off is uncertain. With agricultural commodities, like apples and milk, the prices paid to the producers bear no relation to the prices consumers pay at the super market. What's worse for most agricultural producers is the imbalance of market power that exists between large food retailers and smaller agricultural production companies. Food retail chains are consolidating every year, with fewer chains supplying more people, giving the chains even more buying clout.

While the face of production agriculture has changed greatly over the last twenty years, one challenge remains constant: accidents of nature. Last year's drought resulted in a $125,000 loss in crop inventory for the Burkholders. Some of the Rice orchards are within the quarantine area for the Plum Pox virus. That virus has cost the European stone-fruit industry hundreds of millions of dollars over the last forty years and has now appeared in Adams County.

What motivates agricultural producers, like the Rices and the Burkholders to continue? Ties to the land, working with family, the fulfillment of producing food for the public, the lure of self-employment and the satisfaction of meeting the very challenges that drive them crazy daily. Do the rewards outweigh the challenges? It depends on the day you ask the question.

"You have to be an optimist to be an apple grower," said John Rice, also of Rice Fruit Company.

Annual Cattle Feeders Summer Workshop

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension, The Pennsylvania Beef Council, and cattle oriented agri-business companies invite interested people to participate in a Fantasy Beef Quality Challenge at the annual Cattle Feeders Summer Workshop scheduled for Thursday, July 20, at Yoder's Restaurant, New Holland.

The event begins at 6 p.m. with a free ice cream social catered by the workshop sponsors, while the educational meeting gets underway at 7 p.m. Wendall

Landis, a jointly funded employee of Penn State University and the PA Beef Council, will open with comments regarding the Beef Quality Assurance and Blueprint for Success programs that he coordinates.

Following will be a discussion regarding background details of the Fantasy Beef Quality Challenge conducted last year at Texas A & M University and reported in Beef Magazine. The Texas program, sponsored by the Texas Beef Council, evaluated 24 steers of several different breeds and breed crosses to determine the cattle with the highest net returns. The lesson learned from the Texas program was that it's "tough to predict cattle by visual appraisal."

Participants in the workshop will experience the Texas Beef Quality Challenge and then compete in the Pennsylvania Challenge.

New York Agriculture OK

GLENMONT, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau, the state's largest general farm advocacy organization, worked hard with the State legislature to ensure the future of agriculture in New York State. The recently ended legislative session proved to be challenging for farmers, but with significant support from the Senate Majority and key Assembly support, agriculture will be able to face another season. Many key measures which passed, such as Agricultural Environmental Management, Sales Tax Reform and the restoration of various agricultural programs that will have a tremendous positive impact on agriculture in the future.

"Although we faced significantly devastating legislation this year, in the end, New York's Legislature proved to realize the importance of agriculture to New York State," stated John W. Lincoln, President of New York Farm Bureau. "We truly appreciate their support."

The 2000 Legislative session also produced one of the most supportive budgets for agriculture in recent years. After several years of low commodity prices and one weather disaster after another, agriculture needs as much support as possible, both financial and legislative.

Although agriculture can be thankful for the many successes from the past year, there are still several immediate challenges to be faced. New York Farm Bureau will continue to work on pesticide neighbor notification, citizen suit legislation, farm-worker labor issues and agricultural biotechnology. The future of all of these issues will bear direct results on the future of one of New York's largest industries — agriculture.

"We are thankful for the level of support we received this year," added Lincoln. "We look forward to working closely with our leaders in the years to come to keep agriculture viable in this State."

Dairylea Cooperative Presents Testimony At New York Senate Hearing On Ag Labor Issues

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — At a recent joint Senate hearing on New York State agricultural labor issues, Dairylea Cooperative asserted that the lack of a sufficient, competent work force has become a major concern for farmers in the Northeast.

F. Brandon Mallory, Director of Agri-Placement Services — an employment sourcing and training subsidiary of Dairylea — testified about the farm labor shortage that has developed in recent years. Citing his more than 20 years' experience in state government, dealing with the areas of agriculture and labor, Mallory said, "I am very keenly aware that it has become increasingly more difficult to find farm employees who will perform at a level consistent with today's demand for high quality milk, fruits, vegetables, and other farm commodities."

Mallory state that there were several factors contributing to the shortage including, the low unemployment rate, a "negative" image of farm work, the seasonality of some farm work, the lack of awareness of farm labor opportunities, and a governmental labor procurement program that is too complicated and cumbersome.

"The need for a proactive approach to ensure a sufficient farm labor supply is critical," said Mallory.

To help address this problem, Mallory noted that Dairylea created Agri-Placement Services earlier this year. Although it has only been in operation for a short time, Agri-Placement Services has emerged as a much-welcomed resource for locating and training agricultural laborers, he said.

According to Mallory, Agri-Placement Services meets with farm owners, assesses their needs, and then explains an outline of services to be provided; locates farm employees who meet the specific needs of the farm; custom trains workers at the owner's farm and/or at Agri-Placement Services' training facility according to the farm owner's specific needs; helps establish a strong employer-employee relationship; transports employees to the farm, explains protocols and procedures, and helps the workers get acclimated to their new surroundings; completes all required documents for the workers and draws up the work agreement; and provides translation services and cultural orientation to the employer and worker, as needed.

"In a very short time, Agri-Placement Services has been successful in placing 35 farm laborers from Mexico and Central America on dairy and fruit farms in New York. The initial feedback from both the farm owners and the workers has been very positive," Mallory said.

In identifying ways that the state of New York could impact the farm labor issue, Mallory said, "It would be beneficial for the state to help fund the start-up costs for organizations such as Agri-Placement Services, as well as expand job training funding to include this type of agricultural initiative. Additionally, the state should examine the possibility of assisting in the funding of a public/private venture for the development of managerial skills for farm laborers. The industry also needs financial and educational assistance from the state in dealing with cultural acclimation matters — for both the employees and employers."

In addition, Mallory said the agriculture industry would like to see a revision of the current H-2A program, as well as new legislation, making it easier for the current Mexican and Central American workers to remain and work in this country.

Franklin County Dairy Farm Open House

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Dairy producers and agribusiness personnel are invited to Stoner's Hijos Hill, Inc., Mercersburg, on July 18, 2000 from 7:15-9 p.m. The Stoner family is sponsoring this educational event in cooperation with Franklin County Cooperative Extension.

According to Extension Agent Philip Wagner, the focus point for the evening will be the special cow barn which was constructed in 1998. The barn, which is over 300 feet long, is a three row freestall design with drive-by feeding. The barn has 110 freestalls for dry cows.

Cows move from the freestalls to a pre-fresh bedded area three weeks before expected calving. The next stage is a maternity area with pens and a bedded pack for the post-fresh group. A milking parlor located at the end of the building is dedicated to fresh and treated cows. Currently, 520 cows are milked.

Tim Stoner, president of the corporation, will give his comments at approximately 8 p.m.

Joining us for the evening will be Dr. Arlen Mills, DVM. Dr. Mills came to Penn State Extension on June 1 as Regional Dairy Herd Health Agent for the Capital Region. He is based at the Lebanon County Extension Office.

To reach the farm, take exit 3 off I-81 at Greencastle, Pa. Proceed west on Route 16 for seven miles to Oellig Road. Turn right onto Oellig Road and travel 1.5 miles to the farm. If you have questions, call the Franklin County extension office at 717-263-9226.

'Beef Made Easy' Brings Convenience To The Case For Today's Consumers

Research indicates that consumers do not think about names of cuts when shopping for fresh meat, they think about meal solutions. "I'll certainly pay more attention to it now that I know about it," said Carol Franklin, Carlisle. Photo by Michelle Ranck

One of four test stores for meat supplier Associated Wholesalers Inc. (AWI), Carlisle's Shurfine has taken on the Beef Made Easy program, complete with rail strips and color-coded pictures clipped to the rail.

"With the labels they (customers) can see how to prepare the meat. It's easier since it's on the pack versus if the meat manager has to talk to them and they have to remember how to cook the cuts," said Dan Feathers, meat manager at Nell's Shurfine store.

director of promotions. Bomgardner has introduced the program to 260 grocery store meat cases across Pennsylvania and Maryland, beginning in June 1999. Weis, Giant, and 30 independent stores now have the program.

"The customers have changed, they're not as educated as consumers as we had years ago, and this is a way to help them understand. The instructions are on the package so they can say, 'Hey, I can do that,'" said Mike Sonberg, senior category manager for Giant meat department. "They may order it in a restaurant but not buy it to take home and make it. This helps them understand that they can do it themselves. There is a need for education and a simple way to provide it, and that fits right in with the Beef Made Easy program."

After two years of market research with the supermarket giants Kroger and Safeway, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) unveiled the program in April 1999. To kick off the program NCBA visited the top 25 grocery chains in the country.

"Pennsylvania is unique in that we have a lot of stores that don't fall into the top 25 larger chains," said Bomgardner.

This translated into more leg-work for her, as she preferred to make personal visits to not only pitch the idea to meat managers but also place the labels on the beef during the initial rollout for each store.

Dan Feathers, meat manager for Nell's Shurfine, has the program running in the store. He estimates that Nell's Shurfine uses between 3,500 and 4,000 labels per week.

"The grilling label is definitely the one we use most," he said, adding that the sauteing label is also popular now. "Over winter the pot roasts and other roast labels will increase."

Feathers believes that the meat wrappers, who are crucial to the success of the program, are finding the labels to be less time-consuming than they had originally thought. A poster color-coordinated with the labels aids the meat wrappers in placing the label on the corresponding cut of meat.

The Weis stores now substitute the label for the "Choice" label. Additionally Bomgardner provides posters as a reference tool for the meat wrappers and as an educational aid for the consumers.

The program has changed the placement of the items in the case to group the cuts more closely according to cooking method, said Feathers, who believes that the "Beef. It's What's For Dinner" case dividers add a lot to the look of the case.

Currently, Pennsylvania retailers are looking at having labels customized for a particular store with a peel-off A-1 Steak Sauce recipe that corresponds with the cut.

"It keeps the program fresh and is an added value for the customers," said Bomgardner. "It's encouraging that a national company like A-1 would see the value in teaming up with the program, that they're willing to invest their time and resource and they think it's a quality consumer program." Safeway and Kroger have come up with another way to keep the program in front of customers by running pictures of the labels in ads.

Bomgardner's future plans for the "Beef Made Easy" program include promotion at the meat case, talking to customers, and calling on or auditing stores that have implemented the program.

"I could have a full time job just calling on meat managers and still not have enough time in the day," said Bomgardner.

"The key is going to be a way to keep it fresh, like the A-1 recipe, making sure that labels get advertised, and sales are run on it," said Bomgardner, who remains enthusiastic about the program. "In my mind, I think it's one of the most exciting programs that the Beef Council has ever rolled out."

In the coming months Bomgardner will be evaluating the program by comparing sales data and looking at the sales percentages for an increase in profit.

"The bottom line is — are we impacting producers?" said Bomgardner.

Chinese Film Documentary Of Ohio Longhorns

Dickinson Cattle Co. of Barnesville, Ohio, recently hosted Hubei TV of the Peoples Republic of China in filming a documentary on Texas Longhorn cattle. The rugged attributes of Longhorns and the recent U.S./China trade agreement for Normal Trade Relations sparked Asian interest. From left: Sinclair Ke of the U.S. Department of State; Lang Weixiong, chief reporter and photographer; Hu Wen, TV editor and anchorwoman; and Diana Gao of Hubei, China.

BARNESVILLE, Ohio — Hubei TV of the Peoples Republic of China recently filmed an extended documentary on Texas Longhorn cattle at Dickinson Cattle Company Inc. of Barnesville, Ohio.

The top TV anchor in China, Diana Gao, was assisted by TV editor Hu Wen. Sinclair Ke, of the U.S. Department of State, assisted with translations and site coordinations. Steve Cover, the Ohio State Film Commissioner, assisted in developing the filming plan in Belmont County, Ohio.

The Peoples Republic of China doesn't have hundreds of stations that viewers can flip through. The Longhorn documentary will be viewed by an estimated one billion people summer of 2000.

China is one of the largest potential cattle producing areas in the world, but many breeds found in the U.S. were not considered rugged enough to efficiently produce in extreme areas. The northern areas of China are parallel to southern Alaska, and southern China is parallel to Mexico City. China is contrasted by the huge Taklima-kan Desert, Mt. Everest at 29,028 feet elevation, and the southern tropical rain belt.

Beef consumption in China is currently 10 pounds per capita. Similar consumption in Japan and Korea is 20 to 26 pounds, respectively.

The historic Texas Longhorn's browse utilization, calving ease, ruggedness, longevity, and fertility were traits which attracted the recent Asian interest.

The U.S. House voted May 24 to give China Permanent Normal Trade Relations Status. Under a U.S./China trade agreement, tariffs on beef will be dropped to 12 percent over the next five years. U.S. beef and cattle exporters will gain access to the entire Chinese market. Beef exports to China are projected to triple, adding nearly $200 million annually to the value of U.S. beef exports and $9 per head cattle value, according to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

Dickinson Cattle Co. Inc. is a major producer of beef type Texas Longhorns with frequent exports of semen and cattle to countries that appreciate Longhorn profitability traits under harsh conditions.

Auction, Barbecue July 14-15

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Although Locust Grove Mennonite School's students are at home enjoying a well-deserved summer vacation, the school is by no means empty.

Classrooms are filling with items being stored in preparation for this year's 26th Annual Country Auction and Chicken Barbecue, July 14-15.

This year's theme for the auction is "Celebrating 60 Years of Christian Education." Auction highlights include a selection of premium art and handcrafts by local artisans, quilts and wallhangings, antiques and collectibles, and a large selection of certificates from area businesses.

There will be a large selection of foods available during Friday's chicken barbecue, Saturday's country breakfast, and during the evening Friday and during the day Saturday from the various food tents.

The Country Auction and Chicken Barbecue is Locust Grove's biggest community event and largest fund raiser. The funds generated assist in meeting operating costs not covered by tuition income.

Dairyman To Dairyman

GEORGE CUDOC

Consulting
Dairyman

Question: What can we do to prevent separation of grain and forage in our TMR? If we do nothing will our cows perform, as they should?

Certain feeding situations make this a very good question. A TMR made up of dry hay and grain is the extreme example of two ingredients that are so different in physical nature that maintaining a homogeneous blend of feed is almost impossible without using some sort of binding agent like molasses, liquid fat, wet byproducts like brewers, or even water.

I made a visit to this farm because only experience can determine whether separation of feeds as seen by the dairyman is a legitimate concern. Before arriving, I had requested that a sample of feed be kept as it was discharged from the mixer. I arrived at the tail end of the feeding period with feed left over from the morning feeding. The amount looked to be adequate and the feeder reported that total leftovers for the day were a bit less than what I saw at the end of the daytime feed period. I advised them that feeding for an 8% refusal was important and that this should be checked periodically with the scales on the wagon so that the eyeball method can be a bit more accurate.

Comparing the mixed feed with the refusal, it was apparent that indeed the cows were sorting. The most accurate way to measure the severity of the separation is to lab analyze both of the samples. Another way to tell if some feed management changes are in order is to look at the performance of the cows since starting this particular diet. Milk pounds have risen steadily since the TMR ration was fed (54 to 58.5). Butterfat percent has remained identical (3.8%), which tells me that rumen health has not been compromised. Percent protein has gone up slightly but still looks normal for Holsteins (3.2 to 3.3%). MUN has gone down to 10 from 13 and indicates that the balance of carbohydrates to protein has increased.

My recommendation in this case is to monitor the above measurements and if no major change occurs, do not change anything. The cows have told us through DHIA information that although they are sorting and thereby not eating the diet prepared for them; they are able to perform well. The dairyman asked about the addition of water to help keep the feed together and I said that cheap ideas are often the most underestimated. I also suggested that adding liquid molasses would be the most to my liking but he should work with his nutritionists to look at all his options. If molasses were to be added then the other carbohydrate sources should be adjusted because of what we saw already in MUN.

The real concept here is to not just be satisfied with good rations on paper, but more importantly, make sure that you know what your cows are really eating. Let PA DHIA records tell you about your cows and if you cannot hear what they are saying, maybe I can help.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 2.41 bu., 4.31 cwt.

cheese followed a similar trend. Despite a 2-3 week delay, this price trend is showing up in the NASS survey prices for cheese. For 40-pound blocks, the NASS survey cheese price rose from $1.0887 per pound for the week ending May 27 to $1.1296 for the week ending June 24. This price survey should continue to show price strength for the next few weeks.

The good news about higher cheese prices is that it will increase the monthly average component values for protein, and that will improve milk prices.

The bad news is that USDA found more butter. There was a large adjustment (over 30 percent) in the CME weekly reported warehouse butter stocks, and that lowered butter prices about 10-15 cents per pound. Grade AA butter at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange was trading at $1.32 per pound on Monday, June 12. In fact, 4 carloads were traded that day. After USDA released the adjusted stocks report, butter fell to a low of $1.1575 by Friday, June 23. It has since strengthened to $1.2325 by Friday, June 30.

USDA released class and component prices for June 2000. The Class II price was $13.08 per cwt, the Class III price was $9.46 per cwt, and the Class IV price was $12.38 per cwt. These prices are based on the following component prices: protein $1.4278 per pound, butterfat $1.4128 per pound, and other solids $0.0438 per pound. Dairy farmers that market their milk into federal orders that pay on the basis of components should see these component prices on their upcoming milk checks.

Finally, commercial disappearance of dairy products during the period January - April 2000 totaled 54.1 billion pounds, up 3.8 percent from the same period a year ago. The disappearance of dairy commodities during this same period was as follows: butter up 1.4 percent, American cheese up 4.2 percent, other cheese up 7.6 percent, and nonfat dry milk down 26.7 percent.

Pa.'s Egg Quality Programs Go Nationwide

David J. Henzler, D.V.M., Marlin Henninger, and Phil DeBok, M.P.H., D.V.M.
Pa. Dept. of Ag

The Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP) is a voluntary industry program intended to minimize Salmonella enteritidis contamination of chicken eggs. Preventive measures include placement of S. enteritidis clean chicks, intensive rodent control, cleaning and disinfecting between flocks, and comprehensive environmental monitoring of pullet and layer houses with continuous testing of eggs from any environmentally positive houses. Positive eggs are diverted for pasteurization or hard cooking. The Pennsylvania Department of Health provides technical advice regarding public health implications. The University of Pennsylvania, New Bolton Center, and Penn State University assist in culturing of samples and oversight.

Egg quality assurance programs will likely soon be mandated by FDA, USDA and other government agencies as directed by the Egg Safety Action Plan (December 1999) as part of the President's Food Safety Council. Indeed, this plan presently calls for a 50 percent reduction of human SE cases by 2005 from eggs and related egg dishes. The extended goal is to eliminate SE illnesses associated with eggs by 2010. Quality assurance programs implementing risk reduction practices have achieved success as measured by statistics representing over 1100 commercial egg flocks in the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP) monitored over a five year period (1994 to 1999). Furthermore well constructed HACCP plans which embrace significant findings associated with the Pennsylvania SE Pilot Project (1992 to 1994), PEQAP, the New England Salmonella enteritidis Control and Reduction Program, the California Egg Quality Assurance Program, the South Carolina Egg Quality Assurance Plan, and other research make good business sense and achieve measurable public health milestones.

Important findings from the Pennsylvania Salmonella enteritidis Pilot Project were that older flocks were more likely to have SE and that environment tests don't always identify SE positive flocks. About 50 percent of the flocks with SE positive environments produced SE positive eggs. In a limited study in the immediate post molt period (0-5 weeks after start of molt), a significantly higher number of SE positive eggs were laid than background prevalence, e.g. 14.4 eggs/10,000 versus 2.75/10,000. Further studies are needed on field prevalence of SE contaminated eggs from SE positive flocks in the post molt period.

Other important research from Maine (Henzler and Opitz, 1992) was that house mice (Mus musculus), the common mouse found in poultry houses, are selectively sensitive to SE and are more likely to have this strain of Salmonella over other strains which are more common in poultry. Mice droppings can contain over 1/4 million SE bacteria, and a mouse produces on average 100 droppings a day. SE is three times more likely to be cultured from mice in a SE positive environment than environmental samples from the same house. SE can remain in the mice in houses after thorough cleaning and disinfection, thus serving to expose replacement pullets to Salmonella enteritidis if the producer doesn't eliminate mice from the previous flock. Rats are similar. In other mouse studies, researchers Petter and Henzler et al., 1997, isolated certain types of SE from mice which were more likely to have cell structures producing high-molecular weight lipopolysaccharides with enhanced ability to contaminate eggs from hens.

A ten-fold greater risk of flocks producing SE contaminated eggs was noted in flocks with high levels of SE isolated from the manure as compared to low numbers when compared against 5 other potential risk factors for hens producing contaminated eggs (Henzler, Kradel, and Sischo, 1998). Hence, when 50 percent and greater of the manure samples taken from the hen house environment (pit) were positive for S. enteritidis this was an indicator that the particular flock was more likely to produce contaminated eggs than flocks with less than 50 percent of their manure samples positive for SE.

In total, over 1100 commercial chicken flocks enrolled in the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP) over a five year period (1994-1999) had an overall prevalence (level of infection) of Salmonella enteritidis of 13.9 percent. Over 85 percent of the Pennsylvania layer industry are enrolled in PEQAP representing 23,929,600 hens through April of 1999. A subset of these flocks (houses) present in 1992 in the SE Pilot Project showed a 3.5 fold reduction from 25.7 percent to 7.3 percent in the level of environmental contamination of SE. Similarly, a 1.6 fold reduction in the number of environmental samples positive for SE resulted from the intensive risk reduction measures over the years.

The environments are checked three times in the hen's life cycle at 30 and 45 weeks of age and 5 to 7 weeks post molt. Of these three environmental tests, it is the 30-week test which was most important in identifying a SE positive flock. This was most apparent in complex houses where 75.5 percent of positive flocks were detected with this 30-week test. In single — stand alone houses 40.9 percent of SE positive houses were identified on this test. Over time, it is clear that the HACCP risk reduction practices were effective in PEQAP. This is noted as houses newly enrolled on the project (having two or less flocks in production through them) had much higher incidence rates of SE than established houses (houses with three and greater flocks in production through them) across any of the three environmental test periods. This difference is likely due to the effects of third party monitoring (Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture) and the producer's commitment to adhere to risk reduction strategies. Flocks not enrolled in an egg quality assurance program are less likely to direct resources (labor and financial) for intensive rodent control, thorough cleaning and disinfection, sampling of the environment (sometimes more than a single time), and sampling of eggs for SE.

Similarly, the number of eggs positive for SE have precipitously dropped from 1992 to 1998 in Pennsylvania flocks. During the Pennsylvania SE Pilot Project 647,000 were cultured from SE positive flocks and an overall prevalence of S. enteritidis egg — contamination was 0.0275 or 2.75 eggs/10,000 produced. In the five year PEQAP monitoring from 1994 to 1999, a total of 933,900 eggs were cultured from SE positive flocks for a S. enteritidis contamination rate of 0.016 or 1.6 eggs/10,000 produced.

Another significant public health statistic measure is the reduction of human S. enteritidis isolation rates from the four mid-Atlantic states in which Pennsylvania is the chief supplier of eggs (Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and New Jersey). Between 43.5 percent and 50.0 percent decrease in these four states with a combined overall decrease in human S. enteritidis isolation rate per 100,000 population of 49.4 percent was observed in the nine year period 1989 to 1997 (CDC based statistics). While the PEQAP, alone, did not account for this dramatic rate reduction — it was a likely contributor. This is further measured by the lower overall egg contamination rate of 1.6 eggs versus 2.75 per 10,000 produced from SE environmental positive flocks and the targeted diversion of any identified flock producing SE contaminated eggs to pasteurized or hard cooked eggs.

Flocks housed in single-stand alone houses had 9.8 percent of their environments contaminated with S. enteritidis as compared with 16.7 percent of flocks housed in complexes. Hence, complex-housed flocks were 1.7 times more frequently contaminated than single houses. Difficulties associated with the isolation of individual houses in complexes likely contribute to this higher contamination level. Rodent control is not easy to achieve on a prolonged basis unless management closely monitors the progress of baiting programs and Rodent Indexing (RI). It requires persistent and continual weekly efforts to maintain rodent control in commercial chicken houses with both management and labor reviewing records monthly house by house to measure results. Cleaning and disinfection of SE environmental positive houses is ongoing as new pullets are subsequently placed in the disinfected house, and workers are traveling amongst all flocks. The risk this presents for transmission of Salmonellae is not quantified or truly known. Ventilation systems continue to exhaust air containing feathers and airborne bacteria, possibly serving as a source of Salmonellae contamination of S. enteritidis clean hens or at least their environments. Likely horizontal transmission (bird to bird) of S. enteritidis through airborne methods has been demonstrated in small-scale research facilities (Cast, Mitchell, and Holt, 1998). The ecology of the S. enteritidis bacterium and its spread within commercial flocks is not adequately studied. These factors multiply the difficulty of actual elimination of S. enteritidis especially from multiple-house complexes as these data suggest from surveillance of 1,107 commercial chicken layer flocks over greater than five years (1994-1999).

This study was presented at: 2000 Southeastern Commercial Egg Producers Forum, May 11-12, 2000 Tybee Island, Georgia and Pennsylvania Department of Health Quarterly Epidemiology Meeting, Harrisburg, PA, May 18, 2000.

USDA Updates Feeder Standards

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA is updating feeder cattle grade standards. The revision reflects changes in the genetic composition and production of beef cattle since the current grade standards were adopted in 1979.

The frame size grades, which are an important tool used to predict the weight at which an animal will grade USDA Choice, are updated to reflect production and genetic changes. USDA is also adjusting the minimum requirements for the muscle thickness grades and increasing the number of grades from three to four to accommodate thicker muscled cattle and reflect current marketing practices. The updated frame size and muscle thickness grades will more accurately reflect the value of feeder cattle.

"Colorado State University conducted a project for AMS to study changes in beef industry production and marketing practices and in the genetic composition of beef cattle. The study, which was funded by AMS's Federal/State Marketing Improvement Program, was completed in 1998," said Kathleen Merrigan, AMS's administrator.

Results of the study showed that adjustments in grade standards were justified and would improve the standards because there have been changes in production and marketing practices, as well as genetic changes in frame size and muscle thickness, during the past 20 years.

The notice will be published in the Federal Register on June 27, 2000. In order to allow the industry sufficient time to update its current system, the updated standards will be implemented October 1, 2000. A copy of the notice is available electronically at <http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/rulemaking.htm>. Copies of the official standards are available from Herbert C. Abraham, Chief, Standardization Branch, Livestock and Seed Program, AMS, USDA, Room 2603-S, Stop 0254, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, DC 20090-6456 or telephone (202) 720-4486 or e-mail to herbert.abraham@usda.gov.

The official standards are also available electronically at <http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/stand/st-pubs.htm>.

the wholes to plant the seedlings, but the auger often pastes the outside of the whole so the roots grow only downward. This is especially true if the planting is done when the soil is wet."

Holly Yerger, production supervisor at Westlake outlined the farm's safety program. She said it is important to train workers, especially seasonal workers to operate equipment properly. Give operating instructions until the employees feel they know how to operate it comfortably. And only allow employees to operate the machinery they have been trained to operate. Provide all the necessary safety equipment to protect workers from noise and the rays of the sun. Don't allow personal radios because they are a distraction and can cause hearing loss.

Dr. Larry Kuhns, Penn State horticulture department, demonstrated how to calibrate spraying equipment. The factors involved in calibration include, forward speed, pressure, nozzle size, and bandwidth.

Dr. Paul Heller, Penn State horticulture department, demonstrated insect scouting and how to identify key pests and their feeding damage.

Tim Smail, Chester County Conservation Service, discussed site selection and site modification. New county agent, Cheryl Bjornson represented the Chester County extension office.

Gary Westlake discusses how improper soil preparation can lead to trees that do not grow well and eventually die.

PENNSTATE

College of Agricultural Sciences

From the Department of Dairy and Animal Science

This regular column from Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science features the research findings, student opportunities, and reports on other important topics generated in the Department. The back issues of the column are archived on Lancaster Farming's Internet www.lancasterfarming.com home page. Look for them.

Happenings at the Penn State Sheep Center

Keith Bryan, Instructor

Spring has been a special time at the Penn State Sheep Center, as it probably has been for many farms across the Commonwealth. Just as our students looked forward to spring semester and spring break, our shepherd, Dick Kuzemchak eagerly anticipated lambing season as well as its conclusion. The arrival of newborn lambs confirmed the success of our mating decisions from the previous year, and provided incentive for the upcoming breeding season. The Dorset flock at Penn State continued to provide high-quality animals that were, and continue to be used in our teaching, research and extension missions. Several of our recent accomplishments, challenges and future programs are highlighted below.

Assistant Unit Manager for the Sheep Barns

We have recently advertised for an assistant unit manager at the sheep farm. This position will help to provide much needed assistance for Dick Kuzemchak at the farm, and will help to relieve some of the extra workload brought about by budgetary cuts and retirements that occurred during the past decade. We look forward to adding a bright, talented, highly motivated individual to our sheep farm staff to compliment the outstanding job that Dick and the undergraduate students continue to do with our Dorsets and the sheep program.

Shows, Sales and Consignments

Our Dorsets continue to shine at national events, and the Ohio Dorset Show and Sale was no exception. Our fall ram lamb was 5th and our ewes placed quite well with the spring yearlings finishing 4th and 6th, and the fall ewe lambs placing 6th and 8th. Although we did not garner any champions, our yearling rams were first and second in their respective classes with one of them selling for $3500.

In this picturesque tree setting, the hayride wagon takes the grower meeting participants from one farm to another.

A new "spade" type machine is used to prepare the soil in a one-pass operation for tree planting. Gary Westlake, owner, drives the tractor.

We have a group of sheep ready for the National Show and Sale in Reno, NV at the end of May, and we will continue to evaluate the potential for exhibiting a show string at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus, and the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville.

Our sheep perform well for us and for our customers, so we have consigned another strong set of rams to the PA Meat Animal Evaluation Center's Ram Performance Test. Our consignment includes four fall ram lambs and two spring ram lambs. The ram sale and sheep field day are slated for Saturday, August 5.

We are excited about our Dorsets and believe they have and will continue to contribute to the versatility of the breed in the future.

Continental Dorset Club Conference

Faculty and staff in Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science have partnered with the Continental Dorset Club, and will be hosting the National Dorset Breed Type Conference and Symposia at Penn State on Friday, July 28 and Saturday, July 29. The first mini-conference was held this year in conjunction with the Ohio Dorset Show and Sale in March, and the second mini-conference will be held in conjunction with the National Dorset Show and Sale in Reno, NV, in late May.

The conference will feature noted speakers from the eastern U.S. and cover topics such as: Live evaluation of market lambs, Selling Dorset lamb meat, Selling Dorset seedstock, a tour of Penn State, Proposed Dorset breed standards with judging classes and a type discussion, Carcass evaluation, and presentations on issues, challenges and opportunities for the Continental Dorset Club in the 21st century. Although this program is geared for Dorset breeders, we encourage sheep enthusiasts to attend and participate in this novel program.

Sale - April, 2001

Plans are underway for our first Dorset production sale in spring, 2001, hopefully to be held in April at the Ag Arena. We intend to offer a livestock merchandizing course during spring semester, 2001, and to have tremendous student involvement with the planning and execution of the sale. One of our goals is to feature several lots for a variety of sheep producers and in various price ranges.

Lastly, the current road construction projects in Centre County and around Penn State have made management of the sheep flock and pastures a great challenge for Departmental personnel. Feel free to come and visit us when you can, but bear with us as we deal with the current circumstances.

Sussex County Farm, Horse Show Is New Jersey State Fair

The first fair in Sussex County was Nov. 7-8 in 1821 and included both Sussex and Warren counties.

The fair seemed to die with the division of the counties in 1827. In 1857, a new fair was organized and this one continued through the Civil War until it closed down in the late 1860s. It was tried again in 1880.

According to Alex Everitt, in his book "Living on the Farm," the current Farm and Horse Show started in 1919 when Branchville businessmen, in cooperation with the Sussex County Extension Service, conducted a three-day show from Sept. 24-26. The horse show started in 1924 at Ross's Corner and by 1926 had moved to Branchville at a private track at the Base Farm.

The Sussex County Farm and Horse Show was incorporated on April 26, 1940, as a nonprofit organization of volunteers.

The minutes from 1940 do not specify exactly how much money was donated to charity; however, the tradition of charitable contributions to local organizations has continued to this day.

During the war years of 1942-1945, no farm and horse shows were conducted. However, a 4-H show was hosted.

In 1946, a big show was organized, complete with a 4-H dairy show, draft horse show, saddle horse show, and a team pulling contest. In 1947, the fair became a four-day show.

The year 1955 brought disaster with Hurricane Connie and the Farm and Horse Show borrowed money to cover costs.

In 1961, Dean Uptegrove, a recognized local artist, was invited to start the art and photography section of the fair.

The small town fair was quickly out growing its space. The directors voted to purchase the 126-acre McDonald's Farm in Augusta, N.J. in 1963. During 1969, a land trade was made to expand the fairgrounds on the same side of Plains road. By 1973, roads and a pond had been constructed on the new site. A concentrated effort was made to develop the new grounds and move in time for the nation's bicentennial. In 1977, the livestock committee decided to build permanent barns to house livestock.

Each year the committee undertook new projects. There are five livestock barns, The Snook Memorial Museum, the Richards Building, the Livestock Show Pavilion and Cafe, the Mini Milking Parlor, and the Small Animal Pavilion. In 1983, 15 additional acres were purchased from Ideal Farms to be developed into the outdoor recreation area for the tractor pull and other forms of entertainment.

The Horse Show Committee volunteers built a 60-stall horse barn in 1986.

The Sussex County Farm and Horse Show received the Volunteer Award from the Sussex County Chamber of Commerce in 1986. This award was given as a clear example of the spirit of "People Helping People" toward a better Sussex County.

This small town country fair has come along way since 1821. Today's Fair boasts five livestock barns, three horse show rings, a greenhouse, a huge variety of amusement rides and games for all ages, museums, educational displays, an outdoor entertainment arena (which showcases big name talent, tractor pulls, demolition derbies, etc.), art, cultural displays and more varieties of food than a person can eat in the 10-day fair.

This year The Sussex County Farm and Horse Show became The New Jersey State Fair.

The New Jersey State Fair will be conducted on the Sussex County Fairgrounds in Augusta, N.J., Aug. 4-13. This year the fair will hold open livestock shows in beef, dairy, goats, llamas, potbellied pigs, poultry, sheep, and swine.

For more information on the open shows, or this year's entertainment, call the fair office at 973-948-5500, ext. 222. The Sussex County Farm and Horse Show/The New Jersey State Fair has a Website at www.newjerseystatefair.org.

On The Farm With Honey Queen Renee Blatt

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
JONESTOWN (Lebanon Co.)
 — "She's a go-getter. Don't tell her she can't do something, she'll prove you wrong every time. She's an overachiever," said Steven Blatt about the Pennsylvania Honey Queen.

He ought to know. He is the father of Pennsylvania Queen Renee Blatt.

Typical of Renee's perseverance is the story of how she got into raising bees. After reading about beekeeping in an elementary reading program, Renee was fascinated and wanted to become a beekeeper.

Her parents were skeptical. They had no experience with the commodity and tried to discourage her.

At age 17, Renee found a website about bees and resources for ordering supplies. The investment was a bit mind boggling, but Renee heard that her Uncle Bruce had raised bees many years ago. She contacted him and he gave her the wooden beehives stored in his barn. Over the years, the wooden boxes had deteriorated. No problem to Renee. With hammer, nails, and paint, she was ready for business.

She ordered bees and soon had three hives operating.

Unfortunately, the queen bee died in one hive. Bees in the other hive swarmed and disappeared. The other hive did well for the season but didn't survive the winter.

Renee searched written materials for insight on how to turn the hives into thriving colonies. That was when she noticed an article in "Lancaster Farming," about a short course in beekeeping.

Renee took the course and through that was introduced to the Pennsylvania Beekeepers Association.

"For anyone interested in beekeeper, I recommend joining a local beekeeping association. You can join for a $5 membership," Renee said. She is a member of the Capital Area Beekeepers Association and the Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association.

"Members have incredible knowledge and are willing to share everything about bees, and how to deal with the predators and diseases that threaten them."

Renee was thrilled with the knowledge that enabled her to start a thriving bee colony.

"You don't get rich, but it's fascinating and I love to do it," Renee said of beekeeping.

She estimates that she has invested about $1,000 in supplies.

"It takes money to make money," Renee said of her plans to expand her hobby. She would like to collect pollen to sell, which is in demand to treat people with allergies.

She said that many people are surprised to learn that bees are needed to pollinate about two-thirds of the world's food supply.

Without bees, garden produce suffers.

"Crooked pumpkins are the result of not being pollinated by bees," she said.

In demonstrations, Renee shows several varieties of honey in regular, comb, flavored, and chunked forms. Her favorite are the flavored honey such as blueberry and raspberry. For cooking, she prefers orange blossom and clover honey.

Renee was crowned Pennsylvania Honey Queen in Nov. 1999 at the Beekeepers association's convention in Lewisburg. Her state reign is for one year, and qualifies her to compete for the national honey queen crown at the national association to be conducted in San Diego, Jan. 2001.

Since her coronation, she has appeared on television and been interviewed on talk radio. She represented the apiary industry at the Farm Show Agriculture 2000 banquet. She helped with the honey extracting demonstration conducted in the food pantry. To uncup honey, Renee used a hot knife to slide down over the honey comb, which melts the wax and allows liquid honey to be poured into extractor to drain and strain before putting into jars.

As state queen Renee receives a $600 scholarship and generous travel expenses. She sets up her own appointments for most of the promotions. Her favorite promotions are in schools. Renee has lots of letters from students who wrote how their attitude towards bees were changed by her visit.

"People treat the Honey Queen like a celebrity," Renee said of the attention a crown garners. At the Farm Show and other events, Renee hands out stickers with the words, "Honey, I love you."

"If a kid has a Winnie the Pooh shirt on, I ask, 'Do you know what Pooh likes to eat?'" Renee said as she pastes a honey sticker on the child's shirt.

With some tips and instruction from association members, Renee now has six thriving colonies.

Some of the steps necessary to produce a healthy hive include putting mite strips in the hive for the winter.

Pests and predators in the Lebanon County area include skunks and mice, but in the northwestern part of the state, it's bears that try to steal honey.

Recently one of Renee's friends discovered a bee swarm hanging on a sapling and called Renee, who collected the bees, keeping them intact to fill a hive. She did it all without suffering any bee stings or other problems.

Many people are terrified of bees. An unfounded fear according to Renee. When working with the hive, Renee said that the secret to prevent getting stung is to remain calm and use slow deliberate movements when working with the hives. She wears bee garb that includes a veil, but prefers not to use gloves.

This spring she moved all her bees to a new spot when her dad needed to spray the alfalfa field. She was pleased that the transfer went well.

"It's exciting to read something in books about bees or hear another beekeeper share an experience and then watch it happen to your own hives."

When time permits, Renee loves to sit and watch bees flying in out of her hives. She can determine what the bees are feeding on by observing the direction they return to the hives. Recently a neighboring alfalfa

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

"Does it get any hotter than this?" That was the plaintive plea posed recently by a perspiring newcomer to the area, experiencing a first taste of south-central Pennsylvania's July weather.

"How do you stand this?" groaned another friend, stepping from a meeting in an air-conditioned room out into one of our steamy, sauna-like, summer afternoons.

Both of these comments came from folks originating from more northern regions and not accustomed to living in the "three H's" which personify our York County summers: heat...haze...humidity.

It's that trio of uncomfortable "H" words that has always made mid-July my least favorite time of the year.

Well, in some ways.

But in others, July explodes into this star-spangled season, ushered in by our collective national birthday we just celebrated. (And which is apparently still being celebrated in our neighborhood by the sound of an occasional, leftover, noisy fire-cracker.)

Just a year ago, July rolled out a continuous string of desert-dry days, earmarked on our area farms by parched, cracking soil, curling cornstalks and livestock packing into the deepest shady spot they could find, panting to cool off. We could make gorgeous dry alfalfa hay. There was just precious little of it. Despite the dry soil, we still had July's triadsome trio: heat, haze, humidity.

Nature, we've always heard, abhors a vacuum. And thus far into this new century, she seems bent on filling the moisture deficit which plagued us in the fading months of the last one. Drips and drizzles, downpours and gully-washers, cloudbursts, thunder-lighting-fireworks, hail, wrapped up with the occasional cheery, upside-down heavenly smile in the form of a rainbow.

July's explosive response to this "monsoon moisture" — which often seems to come on the heels of a dry season — is a veritable jungle of greenery, lush both where it's supposed to be as well as lots of places we'd prefer not to have foliage. Like in rain-gutters, building foundation cracks, poking out of walls, creeping up the side of our brick house, even on machinery nooks and crannies where small collections of field dust have accumulated.

She's also thrown in a few "critters." Around her, if you stood still for more than a moment after the sun set, or on a cloudy day, you might have found slugs oozing up your ankles. Slimy, squishy, ever-hungry, plant-chewing, rusty-brown slugs.

We've found slugs in flowerpots and under buckets left parked outside. Slugs oozing up weeds and sliming their way over wet sidewalks. Slugs on dahlias and slugs on string beans, slugs under black plastic, and residing under grass mulch. The Farmer replanted some slug-chewed blank spot in the soybean fields, while I replaced some garden veggie stalks.

The little slimers have a special affinity for honeydew melon stalks, though goodness knows why. After repeatedly sprinkling them with an organic, anti-slug powder (which kept getting rained off), a few days of breezy sunshine probably did more than anything to combat the spineless pests.

More than making up for the super slugs is the stunning beauty of farm country responding to sun and rain: thick alfalfa growth (if we can get it dry!), corn stalking skyward at an almost visible pace, and fields of wheat flowing in gentle waves of dusty gold. Watermelon vines in the garden sneaking across their black-plastic beds at the rate of about a foot a day, flowers have burst into a paintbox of color all around us and the often-tired lawns of mid-summer are still green, as well, grass.

In answer to the question concerning if its getting hotter than the mid-90's we've already seen — coupled with what some days feels like triple-digit-humidity — I assured our newcomer that it wouldn't get very much hotter than that. It just might last longer at a time.

Still, the oppressive heat, haze and humidity is easier to tolerate knowing that, in not too many weeks, summer's worst will be well on its way toward "pushing up daisies."

For now, we're plumb tickled that it's so busy pushing up corn and hay and beans and tomatoes and potatoes and melons and squash and cucumbers and...which brings us to another "H" words.

Hungry.

Board Game Addresses Child Safety On Amish Farms

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farming is one of America's most dangerous occupations. The danger is especially threatening on Mennonite and Old Order Amish farms where youngsters use tractors, big horses and heavy farm machinery at early ages.

Teaching farm safety to Mennonite and Old Order Amish children is the goal of an interactive board game, "Amos and Sadie's Farm: A Pathway to Safety," co-created by researchers from the School of Nursing in Penn State's College of Health and Human Development.

"Amos & Sadie's Farm: A Pathway to Safety" is the only board game that specifically addresses the cultural safety needs and concerns of the Amish community while teaching children to stay safe on their farms and in their fields. The game, which took two years to produce, is being introduced into the Amish schools dotting the Lancaster countryside. More than 300 copies of the game have been created for distribution.

"There is a high incidence of accidents and injuries among Amish children. This game is one of the few resources in the country specific to the Amish and Mennonite communities, and it may help reduce farm-related injuries among children," says Dr. Kathleen Fisher, project director and assistant professor in Penn State's School of Nursing.

The team gathered information from local community members, including Amish children, to help create the game. A review of two Amish newspapers — "the Diary" and "Die Botschaft" — identified stories of accidents, injuries, and specific farm-related injuries. One news clipping, for example, notes that a 13-year-old boy fell while cleaning the stable and the horse stepped on his abdomen area, injuring his liver to the extent that the doctor told him no work for three to six months.

The researchers also conducted a review of self-reported accidents and injuries of Lancaster County Amish between August 1995 and December 1999. They found 23 injuries and two fatalities associated with livestock, such as being kicked, trampled or bitten; 19 injuries and three fatalities reported due to building structures and falls; five injuries and eight fatalities were reported due to machinery.

This informal sampling underrepresents the true magnitude of accidents and injuries as many Old Order Amish and Mennonites may not seek medical attention unless they feel the accident is significant. In addition, Old Order Amish does not carry health insurance, says Fisher, who is located at The Milton S. Hershey Medical Center. Across all farms nationally — not just Old Order Amish and Mennonite — an estimated 100,000 children are injured each year and more than 100 are killed in incidents involving tractors and other farm equipment, livestock, building structures and falls.

"Interviews were conducted with Old Order community members and statistics of farm accidents reported to area hospitals were reviewed to determine what safety issues would be covered in the game," explains Fisher.

In the game, children follow a path around a typical Amish farm with a farmhouse, pond, silos, cows, windmill, horse and buggy, and a milk truck. The game is for two to six players, school age to adult. Each player chooses a colored game piece to be moved around a farm pathway. On a typical turn, a player draws a question card. If the player answers the question correctly, he or she rolls the die and moves forward the number rolled. Many of the questions were developed by Amish and Mennonite school children so the topics relate directly to Old Order farm practices.

Some sample questions include:

Q: "What are the two potentially dangerous things in the hayloft?"

A: "Pitch fork, hay hole."

Q: "Why do you climb into the access window of the grain silo?"

A: "The gas from the silage can be harmful and there are low levels of oxygen so you could not breathe. You can be smothered by the grain."

Q: "After placing silage in a silo, how long must you wait before entering?"

A: "Three weeks."

Teaching farm safety to Mennonite and Old Order Amish children is the goal of the interactive board game, Amos and Sadie's Farm: A Pathway to Safety.

Other topics include proper cow milking procedures, CPR, carbon monoxide, feeding animals and downed power lines. There are also photo cards. Players examine the photo and identify the hazard or safety condition. If the condition is unsafe, players tell how they would fix it. If they see a safety feature, they explain it.

SANDY BRADLEY
Mercer Co. Correspondent
GROVE CITY (Mercer Co.) - Her name is Marsha Croskey, but for a few minutes during this year's dairy pageant, Mercer County's winning contestant became Gladys Molarbee, a tooth fairy that informed her public on all the benefits of drinking milk.

As part of the skit, Marsha presented a large molar that she created by wrapping white crepe paper around newspaper, engaging her audience by saying, "Wow, look at how big this tooth is! She must have really enjoyed her dairy products!"

As well as using humor in her pageant presentations, Marsha displayed her intelligence and courage by also addressing political issues related to the dairy industry: In a speech that referred to internet sites that slam dairy products as "Cyber Cow-Tippers," Marsha criticized the flimsy research on which such criticisms are based - defending dairy products with facts about their nutritional value. Marsha also praised the industry in general, warning that "cyber cow-tippers" had no idea of its strength, and referring to the industry as the "biggest cow ever."

When she is not taking political stands for dairy products and impersonating the tooth fairy, 17-year-old Marsha spends time at her Delaware Township home, where she lives with her parents, Lynette and James Croskey. Her time is divided between caring for her 4-H animals, which include dairy goats (four LaManchas and two Nubians) and a Nubian-Toggenburg meat market project.

Marsha also shows a neighbor's llama and helps occasionally on the dairy farm of her aunt and uncle, Kimberly and Thomas Croskey.

The pageant, held June 27 at the Leslie N. Firth Learning Center in Mercer, marked the second year that Marsha has competed for the dairy princess title. In 1999, she was named alternate. Also competing for this year's crown was Kim Voochies, who will serve as the 2000 alternate. Dawn Seckler of Mercer was named dairy ambassador.

The program included a song performed by Dairy Darlings Lena Aiken, Moriah Canon, Sabrina Dixon, Samantha George, Laurel Montgomery, Sarah Patterson, Sarah Slater, and Laura Sturgen. A poem was recited by Dairy Delights Rose Baker, Alisha Robinson, and Sarah Snyder. David Croskey and Matthew Leise were this year's flower presenters. Rhoda Mathias, Dave Trotter, and Chris Waddell served as judges.

The impromptu question asked of princess contestants was as recent high school graduates, what would you say to your high school principal?

"I'd say 'thank you for providing such a good educational environment,'" replied Marsha. "Then I'd probably ask that he try to improve the nutritional value of school lunches!"

Not so coincidentally, Marsha says that people she most admires include teachers in American schools. "They have a pretty big job," she said. "A lot of people think that their jobs end when they go home in the evening, but they don't."

Enrolled at Youngstown State University, Marsha will begin her studies this fall to earn a degree in music education. She plays the saxophone and oboe, and after graduating she hopes to become a director. She said that the coming months will challenge her, but she is eager to embrace her responsibilities as dairy princess. June is dairy month, she said, and she has no school during June. During that time she will work on many of those projects related to her new role as dairy princess.

Berries Burst Into Season

Berries contain a nutritional wallop — they provide important amounts of vitamins, especially C, plenty of fiber, plus antioxidants and photochemicals known to prevent certain diseases.

When it comes to antioxidants, now known to be important anti-aging and disease-reducing contributors, ever berry is on the top ten list. Berries provide folate (folic acid) which helps prevent birth defects and may help reduce the risk of heart disease, stroke, and colon cancer. Berries can help lower LDL cholesterol, a contributor to heart disease, stroke, and atherosclerosis. Raspberries are high in ellagic acid, which has been shown to help reduce colon and cervical cancer and leukemia.

All berries are low in calories: 8 medium strawberries have 45 calories.

1 cup of raspberries have 50 calories.

1 cup blackberries have 60 calories.

1 cup blueberries have 80 calories.

Raspberries: Skip berries that are crushed or moldy. Raspberries should have a berry fragrance. Store unwashed in the refrigerator.

Blueberries should be plump and have slightly frosty look about them. Store in the refrigerator or freeze in a single layer on a tray, unwashed, then transferred into freezer container and stored for up to two years. When ready to use, run cold water over berries to wash and thaw.

Let berries set at room temperature a few hours so flavor and aroma can develop.

BLUEBERRY AND TURKEY SALAD

½ cup light mayonnaise
½ cup plain low-fat yogurt
¼ cup orange marmalade
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground black pepper 3 medium peaches, cut into wedges

2 cups fresh blueberries
2 cups cubed smoked turkey

In a bowl, combine mayonnaise, yogurt, marmalade, lemon juice, and pepper. Add peach slices, blueberries, and turkey; toss until well-coated. Serve on lettuce leaves. Yield: 4 portions.

FRUIT-FILLED DESSERT CUPS

4 flour tortillas
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons sugar, divided
3-ounces cream cheese
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups mixed berries (blueberries, raspberries) and sliced bananas

Whipped cream

Brush both sides of each tortilla with butter. Combine cinnamon and one tablespoon sugar, and sprinkle over both sides of each tortilla. Save any remaining cinnamon-sugar mixture. Gently press center of each tortilla into a 6-ounce custard cup or dessert dish to form a ruffly-edged cup. Place tortilla cups on baking sheet. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool completely in custard cups or dessert dishes. Beat together cream cheese, vanilla, and remaining sugar. Stir remaining cinnamon-sugar into fruit.

When ready to serve, spoon cream cheese mixture into bottom of dessert cups; fill each cup with fruit. Top with whipped cream. Serves 4.

RASPBERRY JAVA SMOOTHIE

2 cups fresh raspberries
1 cup cold coffee
½ cup skim milk
2 cups vanilla ice cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup ice cream

Whipped cream

In a blender, combine all ingredients, except whipped cream. Blend until smooth. Pour into glasses. Top with whipped cream and serve. Makes four 8-ounce glasses.

For a seedless smoothie, blend raspberries, coffee, and milk. Strain seeds then add remaining ingredients and blend until smooth. Top with whipped cream.

BLUEBERRY PIE

1 baked pie shell or graham cracker crust. Line cooled shell with 2 cups blueberries.

To make sauce, cook together:

2 cups blueberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup water

Cook over medium heat until thickened. Remove from heat and cool. Pour over berries in shell. Chill. Serve with whipped topping if desired.

WACKY WAFFLE STACKS

3 round frozen toaster waffles
¼ cup plain or strawberry-flavored soft cream cheese
1½ tablespoons strawberry preserves or fruit spread
1 medium banana, sliced or 6 strawberries, sliced
4 whole strawberries, if desired for garnish

Toast waffles according to package directions. Place one waffle on plate. Spread with 2 tablespoons cream cheese and half of preserves. Arrange half of sliced fruit on top. Top with another waffle; repeat layers with remaining ingredients. Top with remaining waffle. Cut waffle stack into quarters. Garnish each quarter with a whole strawberry. Serve immediately.

BLACKBERRY DELUXE

1 cup whipping cream
½ cup sugar
¼ cup orange juice
3 cups fresh or frozen whole blackberries
4 slices pound cake

Whip cream until stiff. Continue beating, gradually adding sugar and juice. Gently fold the berries into cream mixture. Top each slice of pound cake with a quarter of berry mixture. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

QUICK "N EASY BLACKBERRY COBBLER

8 cups fresh or frozen blackberries, thawed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
12-ounce can refrigerated biscuits

Ice cream (optional)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Grease a 9x13-inch baking dish. Place the blackberries in the baking dish and sprinkle with the lemon juice. Combine the flour and sugar, spoon into the baking dish, and gently toss until the berries are coated. Bake 10 minutes or until mixture bubbles. Remove from oven and top with biscuit dough from the can. Bake 20 minutes longer or until biscuits are lightly browned and filling is slightly thickened. Serve warm with ice cream. Serves 6-8.

RASPBERRIES IN WALNUT-OAT MERINGUE WITH MASCARPONE CREAM

½ cup chopped walnuts
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ cup quick cooking oat-

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe offers a chance to make blueberry jam with a bit of a twist—just in time for the berry season.

Recently Extension Agent Nancy Wiker sponsored a jam and jelly workshop in response to the almost-daily questions she fields about preserving.

"There's a lot of interest in preserving," said Wiker. "There's a good amount of younger adults that are interested and come to these educational workshops."

Preserving, says Wiker, can be accomplished in any kitchen. "Probably the most important thing is that you have a pot large enough," said Wiker. "You can use any pot for canning as long as the jars are covered by an inch of water and they're not touching the bottom of the pan. Some people use racks and others put jar lids on the bottom of the pan."

Besides equipment, said Wiker, recipes are also easy to find.

"If a recipe you want doesn't come in the box, call the company and they'll send you lots more. They're also online," said Wiker.

This recipe comes from Ball's "Blue Book," which includes hints and information on canning, freezing and dehydration for a variety of fruits, vegetables and meats.

Ball's book is available at Lancaster's Farm and Home Center or by writing to Ball at the Alltrista Corporation Consumer Affairs Department, P.O. Box 2729, Muncie, Indiana 47307-0729.

BLUEBERRY-LIME JAM

4 ¼ cups blueberries
1 package powdered pectin
5 cups sugar
1 tablespoon grated lime peel
1½ cup lime juice

Crush blueberries one layer at a time. Combine crushed blueberries and pectin in a large saucepot. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Add sugar, stirring until dissolved. Stir in grated lime peel and lime juice. Return to a rolling boil. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim foam if necessary. Ladle hot jam into hot jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Adjust two-piece caps. Process 15 minutes in boiling water canner. Yield: about 7 half-pints.

Cumberland County Honors Dairy Promotion Volunteers

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff
CHURCHTOWN (Cumberland Co.) — Even without a dairy princess to crown, more than 100 people came to the Cumberland County Dairy Princess Appreciation Night last week. Six girls were honored during the evening as dairy promoters in the county.

Amy Kulick, daughter of James and Ann Kulick, handed down her title as Cumberland County Dairy Ambassador to Amy Kaucher and Jennifer Kramer. Kaucher is the daughter of Bonnie Kaucher and Harold Leib. Kramer's parents are Donald and Sarah Kramer.

Both girls presented a skit during the evening. They also were interviewed by the mistress of ceremonies Vicki Lantz.

Kaucher modified the popular "Footprints" poem to "Hoofprints" and honored the dairy farmer for the role they play in their animals' well-being. Very active in FFA, 4-H, and school activities, Kaucher participated in the Model UN program, in which students identified problems and solutions that face the United Nations.

Kramer gave a special news report from the farm about dairy products and the dairy industry. She is active in 4-H, Girl Scouts, the Holstein Association, and her church youth group. She also writes for the school newspaper.

Melissa Detman, daughter of Larry and Debra Detman, was named 2000 Dairy Maid. She answered frequently asked questions about milk during her presentation. Detman participates in both dairy bowl and dairy judging. She is also a member of the Girl Scouts.

Kerri Wickard, daughter of Lonnie and Vickie Wickard, and Janel Zinn, daughter of Scott and Marilyn Zinn, were crowned Cumberland County Little Dairy Misses. Wickard presented a poem about milk, while Zinn sang a popular country song.

Kulick, Kaucher, and Kramer were last year's Cumberland County dairy representatives. They worked together during the year to complete more than 50 promotions and activities. The committee presented each of the girls with a gift for their efforts.

Amazing Maize Opens July 8

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — The art of the maze is taken very seriously at Cherry-Crest Farm, a working holstein dairy operation in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country.

Each year the farm transforms a five-acre cornfield into one of America's most intriguing laby-rinths of paths.

Scheduled to open Saturday, July 8, Cherry-Crest's 5th Annual Amazing Maize™ is more than a walk through the stalks. It's an interactive challenge with music, puzzle pieces, and a script, and two maze masters who set up the game (and help those who get lost!).

"Lost in Space 2000" sets this year's theme as an intergalactic mind-boggler starring all nine planets revolving around a blazing sun — all cut and shaped out of living stalks of corn. Once inside the maze, to help you find the right path, there are Kernels of Knowledge, hidden maps, even a "Huskkle" Telescope. You can slide down Mercury, dodge the water of Neptune, or be on the lookout for Pluto (and his nasty bark!). If you get lost, like ET, you can phone home...or call the Mazemaster via telestalk.

On an adjoining hillside there's also a spectacular 18,900 square foot floral artwork called Sun, Moon & Stars — created out of 16,000 yellow and orange marigolds and blue and white petunias.

On all counts, a trek to Cherry-Crest Farm takes you to the world's corniest planetarium, for earth's terrestrials to enjoy a day outdoors.

As the original Amazing Maize Maze and the world's best attended maze more than 180,000 have trekked through the stalks since 1996, Cherry-Crest wanted this year's design to be extraordinary — a maze worthy of the new millennium that would be fun and educational, and tie into the quality of life on the farm.

"After all, it's a year that celebrates the beginning of the 21st century, the election of a new president, and the excitement of the Summer Olympic Games," said owner Jack Coleman.

There's a great schedule of special events — from kids pedal tractor pulls to lively dairy and corn exhibitions, a series of Saturday Harvest Roundup Festivals, plus a scenic place to enjoy a picnic and the beautiful Lancaster Country countryside. You can even catch a ride to the maze abroad the historic Strasburg Railroad's short line steam train that stops at Cherry-Crest Farm throughout the day.

Cherry-Crest Farm is in the heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country about 12 miles east of Lancaster off of Rt. 30 in Paradise Township. Plenty of free parking is available adjacent to the maze.

For more information and a free brochure, call or write Cherry-Crest Farm, 150 Cherry Hill Road, Ronks, PA 17572, (717) 687-6843; fax (717) 687-8143; or on the web at www.amazingmaze.com.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

QUESTION — Doris Martin, Hagerstown, Md., would like a recipe for Italian wedding soup.

QUESTION — Sylvia Allgyer, Christiana, would like a recipe for Chicken Kiev.

QUESTION — Sylvia Allgyer, Christiana, would like a recipe for sourdough seven grain bread.

QUESTION Eva Mae Oberholtzer, Ephrata, would like recipes to make goat cheeses and soaps. She writes that Michelle Good, Beavertown, had sent in a dairy contest recipe for a goat milk pudding and Eva Mae asks if she would send in more recipes using goat's milk.

QUESTION — A reader writes that she is new at canning and freezing and would like a good recipe for tomato pasta sauce and instructions on how to freeze it.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants to know where to buy vanilla beans in bulk other than in a health food store.

QUESTION — Like many of our readers, Bonnie Koons, Harrisburg, writes that she loves B section and all the recipes she tries from it are great. She wants a recipe for cheesecake cookies, which have a snickerdoodle recipe base, cheesy center, and a cherry on top.

QUESTION — Dawn Black, Chambersburg, is looking for a recipe for homemade butter pecan ice cream. She had clipped one from this column several years ago but misplaced it. If you clipped the recipe, please send it in since we do not keep a file of recipes.

QUESTION — It's canning season, writes C. Alleman, Hummelstown. She wants recipes for Vidalia onion relish, pepper cabbage, tomato salsa, and pickled vegetables. Any helpful hints will be appreciated by Carol, who writes that she grabs the paper to read "Cook's Corner" first. She loves cooking and collects cookbooks and recipes, which she uses.

QUESTION — A mother wants ideas and recipes to encourage her children to eat more vegetables.

QUESTION — Judy Ulrich, York, wants the recipe for Honey Pecan Crunch, a pie that she heard was a winner in state Farm Show competition. The pie was shown on television, and she remembers the pecans were lined up beautifully across the top of the pie.

QUESTION — Shirley Miller, Nazareth, would like to find a recipe or booklet about potato flour.

QUESTION — Herman Bean, Easton, writes that he is 78 years old. He remembers his grandmother made molasses cookies when he was a small boy. His mother still made them at 95 years of age but died 10 years ago and took the recipe with her. The dough was cut with flower or boy and girl-shaped cookie cutters. When baked, the cookies were about an inch thick, 4-inches high, and 2- or 3-inches wide. They were sort of a grayish color, soft, and had to be put into a can for a couple of days before eating. Bean said, he believes the cookies are a "Dutch favorite."

QUESTION — Summertime brings lots of reunions and gatherings where participants are asked to bring a hot and cold dish. Several readers have requested recipes to take to these events. Send your favorite recipe and any hints to ease the time crunch working mothers face when these events are held in the evening.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, requests a recipe for canned pickled sausages or ring bologna.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, wants a recipe called Ann-Margaret's Favorite Chocolate Cake.

QUESTION — Steven Skramko, Richfield Springs, N.Y., would like a recipe to make Shoe Top cookies, which look like leather used for repairing shoes. He writes the recipe is from 60 years ago.

ANSWER — Maria Dalrymple, Shinglehouse, wrote that a deceased aunt used to make a fabulous strawberry pie called President Dwight David Eisenhower's Favorite Strawberry Pie. Sorry we did not receive a recipe by this title; however Norma McClure, York, and several readers mailed recipe that they said are delicious and believed may be similar.

Strawberry Pie

- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups fresh strawberries
- 1 tablespoon butter

Mix together sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Add to berries. Line pie plate with pastry. Add filling, dot with butter and cover with top crust. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes.

McDonald's Strawberry Pie

- Wash and cap 1 1/2 quarts strawberries
- 9-inch baked pie shell

- 1 cup water
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3-ounce package strawberry Jell-O

Combine water, sugar, and cornstarch. Cook until thick and clear. Pour over berries in pie shell. Chill and top with whipped cream.

Strawberry Pie

- 3-ounce package strawberry Jell-O
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 2 tablespoons sugar

- 4 1/2-ounce whipped cream topping
- 9-inch graham cracker crust

- 2 cups sliced strawberries

Dissolve Jell-O in water. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine whipped topping, sugar, and 1/4 cup Jell-O. Spread on bottom and sides of pie crust. Mix remaining Jell-O with strawberries and put into pie crust. Chill for at least three hours.

Here's a recipe from Sharon Bielmyer, Holtwood.

Strawberry Glace Pie

- 9-inch baked pie shell, cooled, or graham cracker crust
- 6 cups strawberries

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 cup water
- 3-ounces cream cheese, softened

Mash enough strawberries to measure one cup. Mix sugar and cornstarch in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in water and strawberries, gradually. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir one minute. Cool. Beat cream cheese until smooth, spread on bottom of pie shell. Fill shell with remaining strawberries. Pour cooked strawberry mixture over top. Refrigerate at least three hours.

For Raspberry Glace Pie, substitute raspberries for strawberries.

ANSWER — A reader requested recipes for blueberries, raspberries, and other summer fruits. Check out page B6 for berry recipes featured on "Home On The Range." Thanks to Norma McClure, York, who writes that she loves B section and thought readers would like this recipe.

Cherry Pudding

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup oil
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 4 cups flour

- 4 cups berries, cherries, or fruit desired

Sugar berries and flour them according to taste. Grease and flour 9x13-inch pan. Put berries in bottom of pan and batter on top. Batter is very thick so carefully spread on top of berries.

ANSWER — A Lititz reader requested recipes to prepare ahead of time or quick ones to put together at the last minute to serve week-long guests. Thanks to Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, for sharing two recipes. Debbie writes that she enjoys B section each week and thinks the articles and recipes are the best. She made the Blueberry Pudding Cake recipe that appeared in the June 24th issue and everyone who tasted it said it was delicious. She sends the recipe for Green Bean Casserole, which is a main dish, and a refreshing recipe for Orange Bavarian, which Debbie writes is a favorite with family and friends.

Green Bean Casserole

- 1 cup rice, uncooked
- 1 pound ground beef, uncooked
- 1 cup onion, chopped
- 1 cup green peppers, chopped
- 1 can French-style green beans, drained
- 15-ounce can tomatoes, chopped
- 1 pound shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Mix together all ingredients and place in a casserole dish. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

Orange Bavarian

- 3 packages 3-ounces each Orange Jell-O
- 2 1/4 cups boiling water (use juice drained from oranges as part of the water)
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 quart orange sherbert, softened

(Turn to Page B9)

a 9- or 10-inch pie plate with non-stick cooking spray. Spread meringue mixture evenly over bottom and up sides of pie plate, forming a rim at the edges. Bake until set and lightly browned, about 25-30 minutes. Cool completely on cooling rack.

In medium saucepan, combine half the raspberries, 1/2 cup sugar, 3/4 cup water, and salt and heat to simmering. In small bowl or cup, blend cornstarch with 1/4 cup cold water, then stir into raspberries. Cook, stirring gently, until mixture just comes to a boil and is thickened. Let cool a few minutes, stir in remaining berries and raspberry liqueur. Spoon into meringue shell and chill thoroughly. Top with Mascarpone Cream or whipped cream.

*Mascarpone Cream: Combine 1/2 cup mascarpone and 1/4 cup honey until blended. Whip 1 cup heavy cream in a chilled bowl to soft peaks. Fold in mascarpone mixture.

Master Gardener Accepts Applications

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in Chester County is accepting applications for the year 2001 Penn State Master Gardening Program.

This program consists of a volunteer training course designed to provide experienced home gardeners with the information and skills necessary to share their experience and knowledge with others.

Weekly classes will be held from Aug. 23 to Nov. 29 (every Wednesday night) from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Government Services Building, 601 Westtown Rd.,

In exchange for 30 hours of indoor and outdoor instruction, candidates must agree to donate 50 hours of volunteer service to Penn State Cooperative Extension. Volunteer activities carried out by the Master Gardeners in Chester County include West Chester flower show, community gardening projects, working with horticulture and youth, planning and maintaining a demonstration garden, plant clinics, answering horticulture questions by phone for the residents of Chester County, and more.

There is a program fee of $30 to cover the cost of the training manual and other materials. Applications are being accepted through July 23.

For more information, contact Chester County Penn State Cooperative Extension, Suite 370, 601 Westtown Rd., West Chester, PA 19382, (610) 696-3500.

Tip-Offs To Rip-Offs

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Losing your life's savings could be only a phone call away. To avoid becoming a telephone scam victim, it's important to learn the familiar statements and tactics used by con artists, said a consumer scientist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Not listening or responding to offers that "sound too good to be true" is the first defense to avoid becoming a scam victim, said Cathy Bowen, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education. "Tell callers to put you on their 'do-not-call' list," she said. "If they call again, report them to the Pennsylvania Attorney General's Office at (800) 441-2555."

Bowen also suggests not responding to offers that you get in the mail for free products or services. "This is a method often used to identify potential victims."

If telemarketers use any of the following statements or tactics, Bowen said that they are probably illegal. If a caller uses one of them, hang up the phone.

- "You have to act 'now' or the offer won't be good."

- "You cannot afford to miss this 'high-profit, no-risk' offer."

- "You have won a 'free' gift, a vacation or a prize — and you pay only for postage and handling or other charges."

- You must give a credit card or bank account number, send money or have a check picked up by a courier very soon.

- You are discouraged from checking out the company with anyone — including your family, lawyer, accountant, local Better Business Bureau, or consumer protection agency.

- You are not given any written information about the company or any references.

- You are made to feel that you are getting special treatment. "Consumers over the age of 60 often are approached by con artists," Bowen said. "Older women living alone are considered easy targets."

Bowen offers the following tips to older consumers:

- Don't buy anything by phone from unfamiliar companies.

- Always take your time making a decision.

- Never send money or give your credit card or bank account number to unfamiliar companies.

Before becoming involved with a company, Bowen recommends checking its status by contacting the Better Bureau in the state where the business is located.

11-ounce can Mandarin oranges, drained, cut in half Dissolve Jell-O in water, stir in sour cream until smooth. Mix in sherbert until melted. Chill until partially set. Fold in oranges.

Note: sometimes Debbie adds marshmallows for variety.

Thanks to Sharon Bielmyer, Holtwood, for sending many make-ahead recipes. The desserts can be made ahead and frozen. Cookie bars taste just as good frozen as thawed, she writes. More of her recipes will appear in next week's edition.

Chocolate Chip Peanut Butter Squares

1½ cups powdered sugar

1½ cups creamy peanut butter

1½ teaspoons vanilla

18-ounce package Pillsbury Refrigerated Chocolate Chip cookie dough

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In medium bowl, combine powdered sugar, peanut butter, and vanilla. Mix well.

Remove cookie dough from wrapper. With floured fingers, press half of dough in bottom of ungreased 8- or 9-inch square pan. Press peanut butter mixture evenly over dough. Crumble and sprinkle remaining half of cookie dough over peanut butter mixture. Carefully spread as evenly as possible.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until golden brown and firm to the touch. Cool 30 minutes. Refrigerate one hour or until chilled. Cut into bars. Serve chilled or at room temperature. Makes 12 bars.

Sharon writes that she doubles this recipe and uses one package of chocolate chip cookie dough and one package of white chunk cookie dough. She uses one package for the bottom layer and the other for the top layer.

Sharon writes that this recipe is a big hit with kids and kids at heart. When finished, the cookies resemble little hamburgers. These can be frozen. Because there is no baking involved, these cookies are quick to put together. It's a fun thing to make with kids and a nice treat for school and birthday parties.

Hamburger Cookies

2 tablespoons vanilla frosting

12 vanilla wafers

2 tablespoons green-tinted coconut

6 chocolate-covered round mint cookies

Sesame seed

For each hamburger cookie, spread a half teaspoon frosting on flat side of one vanilla wafer. Place one teaspoon coconut and one mint cookie on frosting. Spread flat side of second vanilla wafer with ½ teaspoon frosting. Place frosting side down on mint cookie. Brush top of "hamburger" with honey. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Repeat to make five more cookies. Makes 6 cookies.

To make more cookies, simply repeat procedure with additional ingredients.

Partner Up To Preserve

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

"This is going to be hands-on," said Nancy Wiker, family living and consumer science extension agent, as she introduced participants to a "Jam and Jelly" session at Lancaster's Farm and Home Center. Wiker conducts these educational sessions in response to the questions she fields almost daily about preserving.

Future workshops include how to make canned pie fillings, how to can, freeze, juice, and dry tomatoes, and how to can meats.

At right Martha Barry, Caroline's mother, shows her helpers how to use get the last of the strawberry jam from the bowl.

Trent Bouffard (above) skims the foam off of the warm jelly, which everyone taste-tested on crackers. Cooked apricot jelly takes two weeks to gel completely.

Participants had the opportunity to try both the cooked and freezer methods of making jelly. Wiker prefers the freezer jellies, which she believes have a fresher taste.

Renee Blatt, Jonestown, (Below) is PA's current honey queen. Blatt's effort this morning included helping the Bouffant boys measure ingredients.

(Left) Troy, 4, Trent, 6, and Tyler, 8 on July 4, find cheap entertainment as the giggle at their faces mirrored on the pan. They are the sons of Tim and Amy Bouffard of Myerstown.

The boys had a chance to learn the hot water bath method of sealing jars.

Wiker displayed sterilized jars that have been boiled for ten minutes. Jellies processed for ten minutes during canning do not need to be sterilized.

"Screw the ring on until it stops, then a quarter turn more," said Wiker. "Don't manhandle them. If they're on too tight the lids may warp."

Jar tops were wiped carefully to ensure a seal. Paper towels are best for the job here, as they can be thrown away. A dishtowel, on the other hand, may spread germs or jelly from a previous jar.

As the children listened carefully for the muffled "pop" to signal a seal, Wiker explained that a sealed jar will last for a year or longer.

Nancy Wiker checks a jelly recipe with Jeanne Osborne of Lititz. (Right)

Wiker emphasized that the product depends on the berries. "It will be more runny if it's been a wet growing season," said Wiker.

"Start with a good product," Wiker said. "One spoiled piece can ruin a whole batch."

Wiker pointed out that the jars make excellent gifts for teachers.

"They don't just sit around, as teachers get lots of gifts to sit around, but they are used up and enjoyed. They're also terrific housewarming gifts."

Wiker also showed lids and rings with a cheery blue gingham pattern. These novelty tops, also available in fruit patterns, dress up the preserves intended for gifts.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our son has taken his family on a vacation west to Wyoming. He will be gone for three weeks or rather 19 days. So, my husband is trying to run the farm.

You've heard the saying, "Everything that can go wrong, does go wrong." Well, it seems that is what happened. The weather here has been quite wet and so the hay was still laying in the fields when he left with his pop-up trailer. The neighbor who finally came to bale it had a breakdown with his machinery after doing four bales.

The manure pump broke down twice and had to be repaired. A tanker hauled a lot of manure on the meadow.

A big thunderstorm dumped three-inches of rain on us and the Conestoga River rose. One of the many heifers disappeared.

Through phone calls we hear which National Parks they have visited. They put up a tent, and for three days hiked with three small children. That must have been a test of everyone's strength. There were friends and relatives to visit along the way.

They had to leave a bumper crop of black raspberries unpicked. The neighbors helped themselves and I picked a few to freeze for them when they come home. My husband has planted two patches of berries with supports to make them easy to pick.

We'll certainly be glad to welcome them back as running the farm at our age has been a real chore. Although, we had not completely forgotten that things do go wrong in farming.

Moth Hot Spots

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — This interesting season, so far, for the Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Hunterdon County Garden Information Center has been topped off by the reappearance of gypsy moth problems in the county.

An infestation "hot spot" has been noted in Holland Township by the New Jersey Gypsy Moth Suppression Program (NJGSP).

Gypsy moth has not been a significant problem in our area or in northern New Jersey for several years. In fact, the number of acres treated statewide through the state's voluntary suppression program has declined to a few hundred from a peak of 88,000 acres in 1982. The number of acres defoliated by the pest declined recently to 1,380 from a peak of 431,235 in 1990, which was already well below the maximum of 798,790 acres in 1981.

But, as has happened in the past, the populations may be on the increase again in New Jersey. Pennsylvania, which serves as a bellwether for New Jersey according to the NJGSP, has experienced an increase from 2,292 acres defoliated in 1997 to 278,182 acres in 1999. Acres defoliated in the eastern U.S. have also increased almost tenfold since 1997.

Hunterdon residents who have experienced gypsy moth damage this spring can contact their municipality. At a municipality's request, the state will perform an egg mass survey in the fall to define possible treatment areas. If treatment is found to be warranted, the municipality may voluntarily agree to share cost and participate in the suppression program. The gypsy moth is unlikely to ever be eradicated, but a combination of vigilance, the state's suppression program, and naturally occurring caterpillar population controls such as diseases should keep the pest from overwhelming our area and state again.

Nutrient Management Reference Guide

A reference guide for farmers and nutrient management planners on the new revised regulations as authorized by the Pennsylvania Conservation Commission in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Penn State University, county cooperative extension, and county soil conservation districts.

This 80+ page, 8 1/2 x 11-inch book will include introduction of recent changes in the nutrient management laws, a checklist to develop a Nutrient Management Plan, and descriptions of CAFOs and AFOs along with help to determine your farm's status. In addition, a list of the county conservation districts and commercial nutrient management specialists will be given with contact resources.

Not only will this guide be inserted into the Aug. 19, 2000 issue of Lancaster Farming, the books will be made available at Empire Days, Ag Progress Days, All American Dairy Show, Keystone International Livestock Exposition, Keystone Farm Show 2001 and Pennsylvania Farm Show 2001.

Quilting Is Her Thing

BARB MILLER
Elk Co.

RIDGWAY (Elk Co.) — Nursing and quilting may seem like an unusual combination. But for Judy Morris of Ridgway, it's been a perfect combination.

It is said that everyone should have a relaxing hobby that's completely different from their job. That's certainly true for Judy, a midwife with 18 years experience, and a former Army nurse for 21 years.

Although Judy's mother and grandmother both quilted, Judy didn't really get started in quilting until after she married. Since then, her love for quilting has grown dramatically — she makes almost 20 quilts a year and estimates that she's made more than 600 quilts.

Judy especially enjoys designing the quilts, such as one she made with a cat chasing a mouse. Sometimes she sends her pieced quilt tops away to be quilted.

Judy used to just work on one quilt at a time, but today, she has several quilts going at once. In 1972, she made a quilt in one day after taking a "Quilt in a Day" class. "Quilting is a lot faster today," said Judy, especially if you quilt by machine or make a "strip quilt," where you sew together by machine a whole row of quilt blocks, building row upon row.

Today quilting has gone high tech with computer software. Many old and new patterns can be printed and the design possibilities are unlimited on a computer. Recently Judy got a computer with a quilt program that she can't wait to use. It has more than 5,000 quilt designs. If she types in "Sun Bonnet Sue," she gets it in both an antique or modern design. Type size block desired into the computer and it will print out a template. She can also figure out the colors and designs and see what they look like before going to the store to buy the fabric. Furthermore, when she types in the size quilt desired, the computer shows how much fabric to buy. She also can print directions to assemble the quilt.

Judy is so excited that Ridgway now has its very own quilt shop, Jo Rae's Quilt Shop, located next to the Post Office. She not only sells fabrics but also gives lessons. Like all quilters, Judy has her own stash of fabrics, so she'll never run out of quilt projects. Even though she's a busy mother and works outside the home, Judy didn't wait until she retired to get started quilting. According to Judy, "You make time for what's important!"

Judy has developed a host of friends through quilting as she belongs to quilting groups in St. Marys, Warren, and DuBois.

The New City Quilters of St. Marys do a "block of the month," where each member brings in a block of fabric for a quilt. When it was Judy's turn, she asked everyone to do an angel and to personalize it. So she has angels that cook, garden, sew, etcetera. Judy also enjoys the group's doing "row quilts," where a theme is selected and people do a row of blocks related to the theme such as one on holidays, which she's working on now. There are blocks for Lincoln, Washington, and even a ground hog for Ground Hog's Day. In the end, each person will get a wall hanging, made up of strips of quilt blocks from others in the group.

Once a year, Judy gets together with several of her friends for a "Quilting Weekend." She says, "It's amazing how much you can get done when you can quilt without interruptions."

Judy's love for quilting has become contagious. Everyone in her family can quilt except for her husband, a pharmacist, and her pet dog. Even her son Peter can quilt! (He's also a self-taught juggler, who enjoys performing for children's parties and school groups.)

When Judy's quilt group, "The New City Quilters," decided last fall to participate in the Elk County Cancer and Tobacco Education's "Pink Ribbon Millennium Quilt Project," Judy decided to participate. She is a nine-year breast cancer survivor and was so relieved that was behind her. Little did she know that by the time her project was due in early May, she's be going through an even more serious bout with breast cancer.

She said the support her family and friends have given her during this challenging time in her life, has been such a blessing. At the same time, Judy hopes she can be a help and encouragement to others going through the throes of breast cancer.

It's never easy, but sharing the load with somebody else certainly helps ease the burden. Her other suggestion is "Remember to take one day at a time. Each day gets a little bit better."

For Judy, part of her recuperation will be quilting! After all, she wants to try out her new quilting program on her computer.

Judy's project and more than 50 other Pink Ribbon Millennium Quilt Projects that will be on display June 22-July 7 at the Elk County Council of the Arts, on North Broad Street in Ridgway, in conjunction with Ridgway's Independence Festival. Later, the projects will be displayed in July at the Holy Rosary Festival in Johnsonburg and at the Black Cherry Festival in Kane, as well as in September at the Home Town Festival in St. Marys, and at the Quilt Show in Emporium in November.

Paws Farm Dedicates Butterfly Garden In Memory Of Brenda Ripoli

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — Family, friends and coworkers gathered at the Paws Farm Nature Center in Mount Laurel, N.J., on June 23 to dedicate the new Butterfly Garden in memory of Brenda Berman Ripoli.

An interactive display, the Butterfly Garden was funded in part by the American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic, where Ms. Ripoli had been employed for 12 years before her death in April 1999.

Ms. Ripoli served as director of nutrition education and marketing for ADA/DC Middle Atlantic. She was responsible for programs aimed at educators, school food service personnel and health professionals. She also was instrumental in the design and coordination of several exhibits currently housed at Paws Farm.

"Brenda was a leader in the field of nutrition education and was a tremendous asset to our organization," said Bret Rigby, CEO of ADA/DC Middle Atlantic. "We are pleased to dedicate this garden in her memory. It is a fitting tribute to the spirit and dedication she brought to our organization and to those with whom she worked."

FOR A CHANGING WORLD.

field was in full bloom, and bee traffic was heavy as the bees flew back and forth.

Renee enjoys experimenting cooking with honey. She even won some prizes among veteran cooks when she entered the contest sponsored by the Pa. State Beekeepers Association. She received first place for Honey Kissed Peanut Butter Cookies, which she said taste better than those made with sugar, and a third place for Honey Apple Nut Bread.

Not all of her promotional work is verbal. Renee helped members of the beekeepers association set up the ice cream booth at the state farm show, and made a bee hive stencil to stencil the wall behind the booth.

"I guess you could say I'm artistic and can turn out some pretty good work if I set my mind to it," Renee said.

She believes she picked up her do-it-yourself attitude from her dad, who incorporates ideas he sees into his farming operation.

Renee's family are independent hog farmers, who sell 6,200 hogs a year, and milk about 45 cows.

Blatt is fiercely proud of the independent sow to farrow operation. "As long as we raise hogs according to industry standards, there is no problem getting rid of them," he said of not having the security of a contract. The 45-pound hogs are sold to an independent buyer who sells them to Leighty's when finished.

During last year's depressing market hog prices, the family made a decision to go into the dairy business. The red-painted dairy barn was empty so the family purchased 45 Holsteins. The tie stall stanchion barn isn't as up-to-date as the family would like, but find it works out well for their purposes.

He said, "Cows are a lot of work, but they help with the cash flow."

While dairy farmers lament milk's low prices, Blatt said they have never had it as bad as hog farmers. He quoted a report from Farm Bureau that determined if other commodity prices had fallen to the level that hog prices had, relative to 10-year average prices, you'd see milk at $2.20 a hundred pounds.

Milk is shipped to the Mt. Joy Coop.

Renee raises her own nine-acre plot of corn. She has entered corn in Five Acre Corn Club. At both regional and state competitions, she received a 1999 FFA Proficiency Award for corn and grain production.

The family mixes its own feed for cows and pigs.

Blatt said that he plans to remain independent but encourages his kids to go to school to learn something other than farming.

"They can always come back if they want to," he said.

Renee has six months until graduation from Central Pennsylvania College, where she will receive an associates degree in entrepreneurial and small business and marketing.

Renee got a head start in entrepreneurial business when she was in high school. She processed a sow and packaged sausage patties in five pound boxes of 20 patties. She marketed the sausage to family and friends.

The venture helped her save a lot of money for college, but the problem was delivering the sausages. "Everyone wanted to talk. I like to talk too," but if you counted my time for delivering, I didn't make a lot of profit," she said.

At college, Renee is vice president of human resources for the student store, the Campus Connection, is a SIFE (Students In Free Enterprise) certified scholar, and recognized by the national dean's list.

A graduate of Northern Lebanon High School, Renee was active in FFA, field hockey, cross country, winter track, track, marching band, varsity club, SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving), Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Who's Who Among American High School Students, and she set a school record for the 26-mile Philadelphia Marathon.

The marathon demonstrates Renee's perseverance and determination. She said that her parents, teachers, and friends were skeptical that she would finish. They warned her that 26 miles is a long run.

They were right about it being a race of endurance. It took four hours and 23 minutes and seemed like an eternity, but Renee did it.

Renee is also an outstanding example of overcoming a weight problem. She considered herself fat, and frankly shares an embarrassing episode that resulted in her determination to shed 35 pounds between her eighth and ninth grades. She said, one day when she stood up, her school desk stuck to her hips. She shed the pounds by improving her diet and through exercise. That's when she developed her love for running.

"I'm always running back and forth between the house and barn," she said of the distance that measures about a half mile.

"I like to stay in shape because I feel healthy," she said.

Renee would like to become certified to teach aerobics and help overweight people attain weight and fitness goals.

Renee also raised beef cattle for market and would like to have a cow and calf operation someday, but doesn't have time now. Although she loves bees and dairy farming, she said that she wouldn't miss hogs, although she shows them at the Lebanon Fair and Farm Show.

On the farm, Renee and mom take care of the dairy end, her brothers the hogs, and her dad takes care of the other farm responsibilities. Renee also helps with the field work.

Gov. Thomas Ridge accepts a commodity basket filled with honey products from Pa. Honey Queen Renee Blatt and Sec. of Ag Samuel Hayes Jr.

Do you know what Pooh bears like best?" asks the Honey Queen as she hands out a "I love honey" sticker to a boy wearing a Winnie the Pooh shirt.

She definitely wants a career in agriculture. As part of her schooling she is required to fill an internship, which she hopes leads to a full-time position.

"She's a rare bird," her dad said of daughter. "She does a lot of things people don't expect a girl to do."

If interested in booking the Honey Queen for an event, contact Linda Hackenburg, queen committee chairperson, at (570) 568-2337.

Queen candidates are needed for the upcoming state competition scheduled for November.

"Being honey queen is such a great opportunity, I encourage all girls interested to apply. I have learned so much about bees and beekeeping, and there are lots of opportunities within the industry," Renee said.

1½ cups strawberries, sliced
1 cup vanilla yogurt
¼ cup honey
5 ice cubes

Combine all ingredients except ice cubes in blender, and blend until thick and creamy. Add ice cubes one at a time and blend until smooth.

Makes four 1-cup servings.

During a school promotions, Renee explains the importance of bees and how honey is extracted for use.

Renee enjoys reading letters from students who write to tell her how they are no longer scared of bees and how her demonstrations are their favorite ones from the many organizations that visit the school.

Cloninger Crowned Centre County Dairy Princess

PLEASANT GAP (Centre Co.) — On June 3 at the Pleasant Gap Logan Grange Hall, two young women were crowned to help with Centre County dairy promotion.

Emily Cloninger, the 18-year-old daughter of Robert and Ellen Cloninger of Centre Hall, was crowned dairy princess. Emily will be attending Penn State in the fall where she will be majoring in animal science.

Emily is very active in numerous local 4-H clubs, the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association, and has been a part of local, state, and national dairy bowl teams. Emily and her family live on Reeber Farm where they have 28 Holsteins.

Peggy Brown, the 17-year-old daughter of Paul and Karen Brown of Warriors Mark, was crowned the Centre County alternate dairy princess. Peggy will be a senior in the fall at State College High School, where she is active in the FFA and a member of the majorette squad. Peggy and her family live on Shady Ridge Farm where they have 200 Holsteins and Jerseys.

Assisting Emily and Peggy are six dairy maids, two dairy misses, and four junior ambassadors.

To schedule Emily, Peggy, and any of the junior promoters, call Candy Wasson at (814) 237-2339.

QUESTION — Horst Schaper, Moosup, Ct., owns a horsedrawn machine gun cart model 1917, which needs some tender, loving care. Does anyone know of some books or pictures that would help him know how to repair the cart?

QUESTION — M. High wants to know if there's anything that will remove black spots off an iron spatula, which accidentally burned in a trash fire. The spatula was her mother's wedding present.

QUESTION — Nancy Landes, R.1, Box 286, Montrose, PA 18801 is looking for someone who can make a braided rug using four strands of material and a crochet hook.

QUESTION — Robin Baummer needs someone to repair a braided rug with a 10x10-inch section missing. She prefers someone from the York or Adams County area.

QUESTION — A reader is looking for a store that sells Hi-Yield products, hopefully in the Lebanon County area. They need them for this year's growing season.

QUESTION — G. Sweltzer wants to know what chemicals to use for treating wood damaged/infested by Eastern Subterranean Termites. Also, what chemicals are used outside the house and where can they be purchased?

QUESTION — Alice Faust from Kutztown is looking for an old barn beam loom. Does anyone know where to find one or have one to buy? If so, please contact her at (610) 756-6488.

QUESTION — A Pennsylvania reader wants the words to the poem "When the Honeymoon in the Barn is Over."

QUESTION — A reader would like to know if Lawrence Organ Mfg. Co. from Easton is still in business. Or, is anyone interested in a 1918 organ in working condition and original finish. Anyone know what it is worth?

QUESTION — A Schuylkill County reader wants to know where to find instructions on making baskets from birch bark.

ANSWER — A Lititz reader is looking for a 1990 Rose Art puzzle number 72348 55555 by Kodak. The picture is of 15 babies in sleepers all lined up in a row. The reader would like to frame the puzzle but has two pieces missing. Thanks to a reader who wrote that they also had one piece missing in a 3,000-piece puzzle. They matched it up to the picture on the puzzle box cover and traced the missing piece on the cover box. She pasted it to a thick piece of cardboard and peeled off the cardboard layers until it was the same thickness as the puzzle pieces. The picture looks great after the puzzle glue was on. Note: Cut pattern of missing pieces a little larger (1/8-inch or 1/10-inch), so you have a little extra to push into place.

ANSWER — A faithful reader wanted to know if someone knows about a polish for laminated tables that produces a real good shine. Thanks to a Manheim reader who writes that her daughter works at a place that laminates wood. The best way to clean laminated wood is to wash it with warm, soapy water, rinse, and dry. Use a no-wax polish because wax will just sit on top and leave prints and marks. Laminating is like a plastic film, which cannot absorb wax.

ANSWER — Robert Finke, Seven Valleys, wanted to know if anyone has a fig tree of the bronze skin variety that is mature enough to bear fruit this year. Thanks to Marcus Martin, 136 N. Muddy Creek Rd., Denver, PA 17517-9196, who writes that his family has a mature tree.

ANSWER — Janet Spangler, York Springs, wanted a manual for a Jari sickle bar mower with a Briggs and Stratton motor and decals. She asks if the model may have been made by Gravely, what year was it made, and where is the company located? Thanks to a reader who writes that he proudly lived in Schuylkill County for many years and owned a Jari mower to use on his Christmas tree farm. The mower was great. He found parts from Koch's Farm Equipment, New Ringgold. Phone (570) 943-2367. The parts are made by Year Round Cab Corporation of Mankato, Minn. He wrote there to get an owner's manual before he discovered Koch's.

ANSWER — Ada B. Zook, Quarryville, wanted the book "Shoofly Girl," by Lois Lensky. Thanks to Harry Fox who writes that he has a copy for $7. If interested, write to him at 756 Rt. 14 A North, Penn Yan, NY 14527.

ANSWER — E. Rantonizy, Glassport, wanted to know how to eliminate wild chrysanthemums from gardens and lawns. Thanks to S. Abdullah who writes that after a good soaking rain, weed, weed, weed, but make sure to get as much of the runners as possible. The runners grow under the mulch and soil surface. It is tedious work, but well rewarded.

Juniors Parade Champions At 2000 Atlantic National Regional Preview Show

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Young Angus enthusiasts gathered for the 2000 Atlantic National Junior Angus Regional Preview Show, May 26-27 in Timonium, Md.

Brad McCurry, Sedgwick, Kan., evaluated the 62 bred-and-owned females, 122 owned females, 17 bred-and-owned bulls, 48 registered steers and nine cow-calf pairs before selecting his champions.

L V A Saugahatchee Sonic 901 led the bred-and-owned bull competition. Kimberly Long, Airville, Pa., owns the February 1999 son of Leachman Saugahatchee 3000C.

Jamie Hower, Bethlehem, Pa., showed the reserve grand champion bull. Just Enuuff Rebar Justin is an April 1999 son of Sedgwick's Rebar.

In the bred-and-owned female show, Sunset Valley Phyllis 928 claimed grand champion honors for Morgan Woodward, Gallipolis, Ohio. The March 1999 daughter of Champion Hill B52 Traveler first won spring heifer calf champion.

Judson Dalton, Altavista, Va., captured the reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female award with Daltons and Jones Belle Unique. The April 1999 daughter of Sitz Traveler 043 earlier won reserve spring heifer calf champion.

March 1998 daughter of R R Scotchcap 9440, and first topped the junior division.

Daltons Rita BELLE188 of S&C won the grand champion cow-calf pair title for Judson Dalton, Altavista, Va. The April 1998 daughter of Rito 9FB3 of 5H11 Fullback has a February 2000 heifer calf at side. The calf is sired by Sitz Traveler 043.

Douglas Dalton, Altavista, Va., showed the reserve grand champion cow-calf pair. Daltons Monet of Halo 6108 is an April 1996 daughter of P S High Pockets. A November 1999 bull calf sired by O C C Backstop 888B completes the winning pair.

Are You Folate Smart?

Have you ever heard of folate? Do you know what it can do for you? Do you know how to get it into your diet? Read on to find out!

What is folate or folacin?

Folacin's a member of the B-complex family of vitamins. It's water-soluble, sensitive to light, heat and air. Folacin/folate come from the same root word as "foliage;" it's found in dark green leafy vegetables. Folate is the natural form in foods; folic acid is the synthetic form in vitamin supplements and fortified foods such as cereals and enriched grains.

Why is folate needed?

The body needs folic acid to make DNA and RNA, the genetic blueprint for the structure and function of every cell in the body. It's needed for rapid cell growth and healthy cell division, important for developing healthy babies and cancer prevention. Folacin also helps eliminate homocysteines in the blood that lead to heart attacks. By forming hemoglobin in red blood cells, it prevents anemia.

Who needs folacin? Why?

- Pregnant women: To help prevent birth defects of the brain and spinal column called "neural tube birth defects." NTD's occur in about one per thousand pregnancies in the U.S. each year. Anyone who becomes pregnant is at risk for NTD. About 95 percent of NTD pregnancies occur in women with no past history of NTD's. Folate is critical before and during the first few weeks of pregnancy — before many women are even aware they are pregnant. That's why it's recommended that all women of child-bearing age consume 400 mcg of folate each day. Studies show this may help reduce the risk of certain birth defects by 50-70 percent. Women who have had one NTD child are at higher risk for having a second affect child, so should increase their folic acid intake starting one month before conception.

- Seniors: To protect against heart disease. Folate helps break down homocysteine, an amino acid that is emerging as a new risk factor for heart attacks and strokes. Because it damages arteries, it can restrict blood flow to the heart and brain. High homocysteine levels in the blood plus insufficient folate levels in the diet can triple the risk of heart attack. Four B vitamins — folate, riboflavin, B6 and B12 are needed to help prevent a homocysteine buildup in the blood. It is estimated that at least 13,400 deaths annually from coronary artery disease could be prevented if Americans consumed more folate. About 40 percent of Americans do not consume enough folate to keep blood homocysteine levels low. Men with high blood homocysteine levels are three times more likely to have a heart attack than men with lower levels. High homocysteine levels may increase the risk for coronary artery disease by 67 percent in men and by 80 percent in women.

- Women: To curtail cancer risk. Folate may help reduce the risk of several types of cancer because it plays an important role in healthy cell division and is crucial in the repair of damaged cells. Folate can help prevent damage to lung tissue caused by smoking and protect cervical tissue from forming abnormal cells that can lead to cancer. People with higher folate levels are also less likely to develop colon cancer. Folacin can help prevent the formation of colon polyps, the forerunners of colon cancer. If they are caught early and removed, colon cancer does not develop.

What Foods Are Rich In Folate?

Our bodies do not produce folate; we need to get it from the foods we eat. While you can obtain folic acid from a vitamin supplement, folate-rich foods like beans, also provide other important nutrients such as fiber, to help round out a healthy diet.

- Excellent Folate Sources: Fortified cereals, lentils, black-eyed peas.

- Good Folate Sources: Pinto beans, chick peas, baby lima beans, spinach, more breakfast cereals, wheat germ, asparagus, orange juice.

- Fair Sources: Split peas, orange, broccoli, eggs, bananas, strawberries, Brussel sprouts, peas, beets.

Fortified grain foods: Enriched breakfast cereals, bread, flour, pasta, rice, cornmeal. As of January 1998, enrichment is not required, but if enriched, the law stipulates how much must be added...140 mcg of folic acid is added to every 100 grams of grain. This dose assures an increase of 100 micrograms in the diet. Most grain products in grocery stores are enriched, but locally baked goods and imported products might not be. Check the food label to be sure. Fortification increase average folate intake by about 100 micrograms per day. People still need to eat the right foods or take supplements.

How Much Folate Is Needed Per Day?

- All adults — 400 micrograms per day. This would reduce NTD's by 50-70 percent. (Women with epilepsy, diabetes or a family history of NTD's need more.)

- Pregnant women — 600 mcg folate per day, 400 from folic acid supplements, the rest from food.

Why Are Folic Acid Supplements Important?

It's hard to get enough folate from food alone. A multivitamin is not a substitute for a poor diet, it complements a healthy diet. Most American women consume only half of what's needed per day. Plus, the body's ability to absorb dietary folic acid varies considerably from person to person. As many as one in seven people carry a gene that causes a deficiency in folate even if eating a diet with the recommended amount of folate. These people have trouble breaking down folate in food to a form of folic acid the body can use. Also, poor eating habits, stringent dieting, alcohol abuse, cigarette smoking, oral contraceptive use interfere with the absorption of folic acid. The folic acid found in supplements and fortified foods is more easily absorbed. Plus overcooking can destroy much of the folic acid in foods. Take a daily multivitamin to insure folic acid needs will be met. Most daily multivitamins and supplements contain 400 micrograms of folic acid. To remember to take it, take your supplement when brushing your teeth.

What happens if you get too much folate?

High levels can mask signs of pernicious anemia caused by inability to absorb Vitamin B12. Thus folic acid fortification is designed to keep daily intake below one milligram or 1,000 micrograms to avoid masking pernicious anemia.

Grossman Continues Reign

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — Amanda Grossman formally ended her yearlong reign as 1999 Chester County Dairy Princess Saturday, June 3 here at the Cochranville Community Center.

Amanda's duties included visiting school children of all ages, interviewing on live radio, writing newspaper articles, speaking to farmers, and encouraging and teaching consumers to use Real dairy products.

In her farewell speech, Amanda highlighted her year and thanked her family and committee members. She explained that since no other dairy princess candidate came forward to serve, she will continue to be available to appear in crown and banner throughout the coming year.

The 2000 Dairy Princess Court consists of six dairy ambassadors and five dairy maids. Each of these young ladies will be trained at a one day mini-seminar to learn dairy nutrition and information, public speaking, and appropriate attire and conduct for dairy promoters. Dairy ambassadors are between ages 15-18.

Meredith Baily is the daughter of Barnard and Jane Baily of West Chester. She attends Unionville High School and is in-involved in Chester Valley Dairy 4-H club.

Betsy Young is the daughter of Charles and Debra Young of West Grove. She attends Avon Grove High School and is a member of Manor Dairy 4-H Club.

Laura King is the daughter of Marvin and Carolyn King of Cochranville. She attends Octorara Area High School and is involved in her church youth group.

Erica Lloyd is the daughter of Ron and Cindy Lloyd of Pottstown. She attends the Center for Arts & Technology and is a member of the Tri-Community Dairy 4-H Club.

Rebecca Nolan is the daughter of Rob and Sharon Nolan of Cochranville. She attends Octorara Area High School and is a member of the Manor Dairy 4-H Club.

Dairy maids also have opportunity to promote to consumers and are from age 12-15. Tiffany Kissell is the daughter of Steve and Kim Harrop of Chester Springs. She attends Lionville Middle School and is a member of the Chester Springs Dairy 4-H Club.

Christy Guest is the daughter of Stan and Cathy Guest of Pottstown. She attends Owen J. Robert's Area Middle School and is a member of the Tri-Community Dairy 4-H Club.

Pepper Kissell is the daughter of Steve and Kim Harrop of Chester Springs. She attends Lionville Middle School and is a member of the Chester Springs Dairy 4-H Club.

Trisha Harrop is the daughter of Bruce and Betsy Harrop of Chester Springs. She attends Lionville Middle School and is a member of the Chester Valley Dairy 4-H Club.

Becky Baily is the daughter of Barnard and Jane Baily of West Chester. She attends the Unionville Area Middle School and is a member of the Chester Valley Dairy 4-H Club.

These young ladies will be working with the Chester County Milk Promotion Committee in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. and American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic, promoting dairy products and the dairy industry throughout the county for the next year. Anyone interested in having one of these young ladies to speak to your group or organization, contact Sharon Nolan at (610) 593-7465.

What Is Pond Slime

The green slime you see on ponds is really an aquatic or water plant called filamentous algae. Algae is a weed that is very common in Ohio. It usually starts growing in late spring or summer when the temperatures are warm.

This water weed is also called moss or pond scum. The algae forms thick mats of hair-like strands that begin growing on submerged objects at the bottom of the pond-things like rocks, tree limbs, or garbage.

As it grows, the algae gives off oxygen. The air bubbles are trapped in the thick mat of algae and this causes it to rise to the top of the water. Algae can cover a pond and make the quality of the water harmful for the plants and animals that live in the pond. Because algae grows so rapidly, it can cover the surface and block out sunlight and air.

Algae is also harmful for humans because it changes the quality of the water. And who would want to swim in a pond covered with green slime?

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

SAT., JULY 15, 2000

10:00 AM

2 Valuable Parcels on same day.

Parcel 1 is a farmette consisting of 11 acres of land, improved with a beautiful American 4 square home, large modern bank barn, large potato cellar, other out buildings. Over 8 acres of the 11 is zoned Residential. This farm has endless possibilities, bordering 2 paved roads, walking distance to the schools

Parcel 2 is vacant land. 14 acres, zoned Residential. There is over 870' of state road frontage and 900' along township roadway. Perked in one site. There is a stream through the property. Outstanding potential in this zone.

Both parcels are being offered at auction because of owner retirement from farming. Either parcel has a potential for a pond too! Whether you are looking for single family living sites or subdivision potential, this one is exciting. Plot plan is available for review and private showings are welcomed.

These fine parcels are located in Fawn Township, York County, PA. Both are approximately 2 miles west of Fawn Grove Square, at the intersection of Rt 851 and Brown Road (signs posted). Truly a must see!

Terms: 10% of purchase price day of auction in guaranteed funds. Balance in 45 days.

The Right Tractor for YOU

The world is changing at an astonishing pace. Some stand still, but successful people respond, adapt and change along with it. New Holland is changing, growing and creating solutions that match your changing needs. Take a look:

TN tractors
42 to 62 PTO hp

Surprising power and faster cycle times make this "small" tractor work big.

TM tractors
92 to 135 PTO hp

The sharpest-turning, smoothest-shifting, most comfortable "gliding" tractor on the market.

70 Series tractors
145 to 210 PTO hp

POWER without Hesitation

Your job's tough enough without fighting your transmission. But with the New Holland powershift transmission, shifting is as smooth as the automatic transmission of a car. Forward-reverse shuttling is smooth and clutch-free. Check out the powershift transmission on New Holland 92- to 135-PTO hp TM tractors or 145- to 210-PTO hp 70 Series tractors.

The Best Way to Predict the Future?

Invent It.

New Holland is creating the right solutions to match your changing needs. If you need to move round bales, pallets of feed or loads of manure faster, we have the solution for you – a 42- to 62-PTO hp New Holland TN tractor. The exclusive TN electro-hydraulically controlled power shuttle lets you shift from forward to reverse with the touch of a finger. Faster cycle times means your shuttling goes even faster.

Angus Juniors Compete For Top Honors In Buckeye State

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Angus enthusiasts gathered for the 2000 Eastern Regional Junior Angus Show, June 23-25 in Lebanon, Ohio.

Junior Angus members exhibited 226 owned females, 97 bred-and-owned females, 15 bred-and-owned bulls, 41 steers and 12 cow-calf pairs.

Jenna Gilbert, Greenville, Ohio, showed the grand champion bred-and-owned bull. Crystal Creek Right Turn 275 is a July 1999 son of Rito 9FB3 of 5H11 Fullback.

In the bred-and-owned female competition, Morgan Woodward, Gallipolis, Ohio, led Sunset Valley Phyllis 928 to grand champion honors. The March 1999 daughter of Champion Hill B52 Traveler first won junior champion heifer.

Megan Weisel, Louisville, Ohio, led Champion Hill Lady 1530 to the grand champion owned female title. The March

Douglas Dalton, Altavista, Va., showed the grand champion cow-calf pair. Daltons Monet of Halo 6108 is an April 1996 daughter of P S High Pockets. A November 1999 son of O C C Backstop 888B is at side.

F A Lucky Lady won reserve grand champion cow-calf pair. Hailey Hinson, Pataskala, Ohio, owns the March 1998 daughter of Wayview Lucky Boy 930. A March 2000 heifer sired by VDAR New Trend 3587 completes the winning pair.

Brad Moritz, Buckingham, Ill., led G & J Ransom 691 to grand champion steer. He's an April 1999 son of Dameron O S U Ransom.

Kiata Cool Hand Luke 9606 captured reserve grand champion steer honors. Eric King, Tiffin, Ohio, showed the March 1999 son of O G L Battle Cry 427 128. The steer also earned grand champion in the ultrasound-determined carcass competition. He scanned a ribeye area of 15.93 inches and .39 inches of back fat with a yield grade of 2.19 and a Choice quality grade.

Farmers Can File For Tax Refunds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Treasurer Barbara Hafer said Pennsylvania farmers may file claims for liquid fuels tax refunds between July 1 and Sept. 30.

Hafer, who chairs the Board of Finance and Revenue, said claim forms must be returned postmarked no later than Sept. 30 to the Board of Finance and Revenue, Motor Fuels Section, 1101 S. Front St., Suite 410, Harrisburg, PA 17104-2540.

"Any person who uses liquid fuels in the actual production of agricultural products is eligible for refunds," she said.

"Last year," she said, "board staff processed 9,039 claims and paid $3,510,400 in refunds. The average claim paid was $338 with a range of $2.39 to a farmer in Wayne County and $31,580 paid to a family of farmers in Lancaster County. The refunds are 25.9 cents per gallon for gasoline and 30.8 cents per gallon for kerosene and diesel fuel."

Each claim must include copies of paid receipts or a statement from the fuel dealer that shows the number of gallons purchased, purchase dates, and verification that the state taxes (liquid fuels and fuel us) were paid.

Claim forms are available from Board of Finance and Revenue at the above address. Questions may be answered by calling 717-787-6534.

E-Town Student Outstanding Senior In Penn State's College Of Agricultural Sciences

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Justin Howes of Elizabethtown, son of Sue Kauffman and Jay Howes, has been selected as the outstanding senior in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Howes, who will graduate in December, is majoring in agricultural business management, with minors in agricultural economics and rural sociology and animal science.

Howes has been particularly active in preparing for his postcollege career through extensive experience on farms and in the business world. In the summer of 1999, he interned for Cargill Inc.'s Animal Nutrition Division in Lebanon, designing an animal biosecurity plan that was featured by the company at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis. He also interned at the Pennsylvania Holstein Association in 1999, working on membership drives and creating a membership survey to evaluate the effectiveness of the association's communications efforts.

From 1997-1998, Howes was a farm worker at Sunnyhill Farm in Manheim, where he helped supervise a 60,000-bird pullet operation and performed field work and other farm maintenance. He also worked at Star Rock Farms Dairy in Conestoga, where he performed feeding, milking, and other responsibilities for a 300-cow milking herd from 1993-1998.

Howes has served as a College of Agricultural Sciences advocate since 1998. He and the other advocates represent the college at major events, including Penn State's Ag Progress Days and the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Ag advocates support the college's efforts to enhance the image of agriculture and recruit highly qualified students.

Howes has kept busy during his college career by actively taking part in student clubs and fraternal organizations. He is a member of the Penn State Dairy Science Club, serving as the 2000 treasurer, and he worked as barn manager for the Nittany Lion Fall Classic from 1997-1999. He also is a member of the Alpha Zeta Fraternity, serving as house treasurer in 1998.

In addition, Howes is a member of the National Agri-Marketing Association and the Penn State Coaly Agriculture Honor Society. He also was named to the Gamma Sigma Delta Agricultural Honor Society, the Golden Key National Honor Society, the Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, and the dean's list in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

Howes is a 1996 graduate of Elizabethtown Area High School.

Tour Shows How Crown Vetch Controls Erosion On Farmland

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Crown vetch, the pink-flowered perennial planted along highways to control erosion, is an effective living mulch for cropland, said an agronomist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Those interested in seeing research and demonstration plots of crown vetch are invited to a living mulch tour from noon to 3:30 p.m. on July 14 at Penn State's Agronomy Research Farm. The farm is at Research Gate B of the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center, Rocksprings, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Lunch will be provided at no cost.

"Crown vetch can be used as an alternative to terraces, contour strips and dead residue mulch," said Nate Hartwig, professor emeritus of weed science.

"When managed correctly, crown vetch forms a vegetative cover, virtually eliminating runoff of rainwater, topsoil, nutrients and pesticides," said Hartwig. "It also allows farmers to plant agronomic crops, rather than planting sod crops to reduce soil erosion."

Hartwig has been studying the use of crown vetch as a living mulch for corn, small grains, and soybeans since 1973. His research compares test plots with no soil cover, plots with surface crop residue, and plots with crown vetch.

"Tilled plots with no soil cover on a 14 percent slope can lose about 12 to 14 tons of topsoil per acre per year," said Hartwig. "Plots with cornstalk residue lose an average of one-quarter to one-half of a ton of topsoil per year. That's about a 95 percent reduction in soil loss."

"Plots with crown vetch show the most dramatic reduction, losing only about 50 pounds of topsoil per acre per year. That's about a 99 percent reduction. At the same time, the plant's roots penetrate deep into the soil, improving tilth and water infiltration."

At $10 a pound, crown vetch costs about $10 per acre to establish. "But once in place, it should last forever," said Hartwig. "It's almost impossible to kill it accidentally with herbicides. At the same time, the plant is easy to suppress so that it doesn't compete with crops. In the long run, it can be less expensive than other conservation measures."

Crown vetch is compatible with all crop rotations, including corn, soybeans, small grains, alfalfa, and alfalfa/grass mixtures. It doesn't decrease crop production, and it requires no special tools or chemicals to manage it. "In addition, it has nutritional value equal to alfalfa, so it can be used as a forage," said Hartwig.

Crown vetch normally takes two to three years to become well established. "Once established, it fixes nitrogen, a portion of which becomes available to crops such as corn," said Hartwig. "Our research shows that yields of 100 bushels of corn per acre are possible in fields with a crown vetch cover without any added nitrogen."

For more information about using crown vetch as a living mulch, contact your county Penn State Cooperative Extension

Paper copies of the guide are available at county extension offices or from the College of Agricultural Sciences Publications Distribution Center, 814-865-6713.

THE HARDEST JOB!

Good managers create, not consume, workplace energy.

Remember the four "classic" functions of management — plan, organize, lead, and control — that you learned in school? Although these basic functions are fine for taking care of most of your day-to-day management duties, they fail to reflect the new reality of the workplace and the new partnership of managers and workers.

Today's managers need a new set of management functions — based on forging a strong employee/employer relationship:

- Energize. Today's managers need to be masters of making things happen. You can be the best analyst in the world or the most highly organized executive on the planet, but if the level of excitement you generate can be likened more to a dish rag than to a spark plug, then you may never have what it takes to create a truly great environment. Great managers create far more energy than they consume. Instead of taking energy from the organization, the best managers channel and amplify energy to the organization.

- Empower. Great managers allow their employees to do great work — they empower them to excel. This is a vital function of management because even the greatest managers in the world cannot succeed all by themselves. To achieve the goals of the organization, managers depend on the skills that their employees offer. Effective management is the leveraging of the efforts of every member of a work group toward a common purpose. If you are constantly doing your employees' work for them, not only have you the advantage of leverage that your employees can provide, but you are also putting yourself on the path to stress.

- Support. The key to creating a supportive environment is establishing openness throughout an organization. In an open environment, employees can bring up questions and concerns — in fact, they are encouraged to do so. When employees see their managers are open to new ideas, they are more likely to offer suggestions and new ideas.

- Communicate. Information is power, and as the speed of business continues to accelerate, information must be communicated to employees faster than ever before. Constant change and increasing turbulence in the business environment necessitate more communication, not less.

Management is not what you do to people, it's what you do for them. Managers who truly manage their employees — who energize them, empower them, support them, and communicate with them — will attract and retain key employees because they build trust and commitment.

What On Earth Is A Pasture Walk?

Shelly Oglie
York County
Conservation District
Mark Goodson
Penn State
Cooperative Extension
York County

A postcard in the mail, a flier at the fertilizer dealer, or an announcement in a newsletter announces an upcoming "Pasture Walk." What on earth is a pasture walk? you wonder.

A pasture walk is an opportunity to visit a grazing operation, visit with other farmers interested in grazing, and to learn.

"Go with an open mind and learn all you can," said Frank Lucas, Natural Resources Conservation Services project leader for the Pequea-Mill Creek Watershed in Lancaster County.

One upcoming pasture walk is at the Roman Stoltzfoos farm in Kinzer, Lancaster County, Aug. 3-4.

palatability, forage quality, extending the growing season, supplemental feed, fencing, watering systems, soil health, and "the bottom line."

Both experienced and novice graziers will attend. Through nonformal discussion and demonstration, producers can gain a wealth of knowledge.

"You keep experimenting and learning. Never assume you've done enough," Dave Forgey, a rotational grazer with eight years of experience from New York.

Frank Lucas, NRCS, advises not to adopt all the new ideas at once.

"You don't have to convert the whole farm. Start slow with a few paddocks and see how you like it."

Titus Martin of Franklin County agreed. "If you are a dairy farmer interested in grazing, start with your heifers and dry cows. That way your paycheck won't be affected while you are experimenting, getting your feet wet."

ideal opportunity for the novice to learn from more experienced graziers.

In addition to attending a pasture walk, you may want to do a little reading on the subject of rotational grazing. The "Penn State Agronomy Guide 1999-2000," section 8, contains extensive facts and data relating to pasturing, and "Agronomy Facts 43: Four Steps in Rotational Grazing" explains the concept, provides recommendations, and gives examples of calculations.

Contact your local extension office for more details.

The next opportunity for you to attend a Pasture Walk/Field Day is Aug. 3-4. The same topics will be covered on both days.

The walk is at Roman Stoltzfoos's farm in Kinzer. Roman is a well-known organic dairy farmer who practices rotational grazing. The pasture is a major feed source for the cows.

The York County Conservation District is willing to provide transportation to the event. Call Shelly at 717-755-2966, ext. 107 for transportation details.

USDA Establishes Volume Regulation To Assist Cranberry Industry

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA has announced a final rule regulating the volume of cranberries that can be marketed during the 2000-2001 crop year.

A producer allotment of 85 percent will be implemented for the new season beginning Sept. 1 to stabilize plummeting prices due to expanding production and mounting inventories.

The allotment establishes the quantity of cranberries that handlers may purchase from, or handle for growers.

The industry's Cranberry Marketing Committee met on June 6 to discuss three options offered in the proposed rule published May 30, with a comment period ending June 14. At this meeting the committee recommended an alternative option incorporating aspects from the three proposed options.

USDA is adopting the committee's June 6 recommendation with two changes. The first change would continue to allow excess fresh cranberries to be exported. The second change would recognize established growers' sales of cranberries from recently planted acreage. Details of these changes are contained in the final rule.

The final rule establishes a marketable quantity of 5.468 million barrels and an allotment percentage of 85 percent. Total growers' sales histories were set at 6.432 million barrels.

The allotment percentage equals the marketable quantity divided by the total of all growers' sales histories. Fresh and organically-grown cranberries are exempt from the volume limitations to facilitate marketing of these products. Imports are not regulated under the marketing order.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which oversees the Cranberry Marketing Order, received 131 comments on the proposed rule. By far, the majority of commenters were cranberry growers.

Seventy-three comments opposed volume regulation in general or opposed a specific portion of the proposals. Fifty-eight comments favored one of the options under consideration.

The final rule will be published in the July 11 Federal Register and can be viewed at www.ams.usda.gov/fv/moab.html.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the cranberry industry have worked together in considering the best options to address the oversupply situation," said Enrique E. Figueroa, deputy under secretary for marketing and regulatory programs.

Kathleen A. Merrigan, administrator for USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said, "In view of the difficult circumstances faced by the cranberry industry and the many variables considered, USDA determined that this option is the most equitable means of establishing volume regulation at this time."

The eight-member Cranberry Marketing Committee, appointed by the secretary of agriculture, oversees the Cranberry Marketing Order that regulates shipments of cranberries grown in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, Washington, and Long

Cranberry production in 1999 reached an all-time high of 6.39 million barrels (one barrel equals 100 pounds of cranberries) — 17 percent above the previous year and a 377 percent increase since 1960. In the same 40 years, harvested acreage has expanded 76 percent and growers have increased their yields 171 percent. Most domestically produced cranberries — about 95 percent — are processed, while the remainder is shipped to fresh markets.

Consumer demand for cranberries has leveled off in recent years, with total U.S. sales peaking in 1994 at 4.7 million barrels and dipping to 4.5 million barrels in 1998. Prices have suffered as a result.

Growers have watched prices decline from a peak in 1996 of $65.90 per barrel to $38.80 per barrel in 1998, and returns for the 1999 crop are expected to fall below $30.00. At the same time, inventories have mounted, and the Cranberry Marketing Committee estimates that nearly a year's worth of production is expected to be held in inventory when the current marketing year ends Aug. 31.

The industry's hottest new mower.

Be Prepared For Tougher Poultry Waste Regulations

OCEAN CITY, Md. — Learn the latest technology and information about poultry waste management at the 2000 National Poultry Waste Management Symposium at the Sheraton Fontainebleau Hotel, Ocean City, Maryland, October 16-18.

The symposium is targeted to meet current and future needs of the poultry industry when responsibly dealing with environmental issues.

The program begins with a general session covering broad topics related to poultry by-products and social issues, followed by concurrent sessions addressing specific issues such as air and water quality, utilization, and marketing alternatives and regulation.

The target audience is mid-level managers, university and allied industry personnel, regulators, growers, and farmers.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Provides National Legislative Report

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — "Farm Bureau has been involved in a lot of legislative activity in Congress in recent months aimed at helping to save costs and improve net income, both long term and short term, for farmers," said Guy Donaldson, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "Here's a report on some of the major issues Farm Bureau has been working on."

Crop Insurance/ Farm Assistance

President Clinton signed legislation H.R. 2559 passed by Congress to spend $15.2 billion for crop insurance reform and farm assistance. The legislation provides $8.1 billion for increased premium subsidies, and expansion of crop insurance programs, including revenue insurance for livestock.

Another $7.1 billion is included for market assistance payments with $5.5 billion going to Agricultural Marketing Transition Assistance (AMTA) and $1.64 billion in payments for minor crops.

The legislation provides $5.1 million for loss of income to fruit producers whose orchards must be destroyed because of Plum Pox Virus infection.

Permanent Normal Trade Relations For China Passes House

The U.S. House of Representatives passed legislation granting Permanent Normal Trade Relations (PNTR) for China by a larger margin than expected.

The U.S. Senate agreed to consider the legislation and act on its passage without amendments. This action will avoid the need for the legislation to go to conference, and will allow it to go directly to the President upon U.S. Senate passage.

However, Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott (R.-Miss.) is withholding Senate action on PNTR for China. The speculation is that the Senate Majority Leader is holding the PNTR vote as a bargaining chip to gain more cooperation with the administration in passing appropriation bills.

The Senate is expected to pass the legislation by a wide margin. Sen. Rick Santorum (R.-Pa.) favors PNTR for China, while Sen. Arlen Specter (R.-Pa.) opposes it.

Estate Tax Eliminated

The House passed The Death Tax Elimination Act (H.R. 8) with a near veto-proof vote (279-136). The House-approved legislation repeals death taxes by the year 2010. The legislation retains assets (up to $5.6 million) on a stepped-up basis when the tax is repealed in 2010.

The stepped-up amount would be indexed to increase automatically with the inflation rate. All estate sizes would retain stepped-up basis assets of $1.3 million. If an estate were larger than $1.3 million, the heirs could choose which assets retain the stepped-up basis. There would be an additional $3 million of assets eligible for stepped-up basis on estates transfers between spouses, bringing the total value of stepped-up basis assets in such transfers up to $4.3 million.

The legislation also reduces all estate tax rates by about 15 percent over 10 years and lowers the bottom effective rate from 37 percent to 18 percent. The top rate is cut from 55 percent to 53 percent in 2001 and to 50 percent in 2002. All rates are reduced by one percent in 2003-2006 by 1.5 percent in 2007, and by two percent in 2008-2009. The unified credit is changed to an exemption in 2001 which lowers the bottom estate tax rate from 37 percent to 18 percent.

Pennsylvania's Congressional Delegation vote on the legislation split along party lines with Republicans favoring and Democrats opposing the legislation. Most Democrats are supportive of alternative legislation that would address elimination of estate taxes for family-owned businesses. The Senate is expected to act on estate tax elimination after the July 4 recess. Passage is questionable, and the Senate legislation is expected to mirror the House version. Sen. Santorum supports estate tax elimination, while Sen. Specter is undecided. President Clinton has threatened to veto the House passed measure.

Agriculture Appropriations

U.S. Representative George R. Nethercutt, Jr. (R.-Wash.) has proposed an amendment that would lift sanctions on agricultural and medical exports to Iran, Libya, North Korea, Sudan, and Cuba. However, the amendment would allow the President to reimpose the sanction with both the House and Senate approval.

Lacking sufficient support to defeat the sanction's amendment in the House agricultural appropriations bill (H.R. 4461), House leadership delayed voting on the measure. A similar sanction amendment passed the Senate Appropriations Committee and was included in the Senate agricultural appropriations bill (S. 2536). Sen. Lott will not allow the Senate to act on the agricultural appropriations bill until the House acts.

The estimated value of agricultural imports by these five currently sanctioned countries is $7 billion. If sanctions are lifted, U.S. agricultural exports are expected to increase for rice, wheat, corn, soybeans, feed grains, milk powder, animal products, fruits, and vegetables.

Other Issues

The Veterans Administration Housing and Urban Development (VA HUD) appropriations bill contains language to delay the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) from implementing its proposed Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) changes for a year. The language prohibits EPA from spending funds to finalize or implement the TMDL rule. The House has passed (256-169) the VA HUD and Independent Agencies Appropriations bill (H.R. 4635). The proposed TMDL changes would mean more regulatory compliance costs for farmers and owners of forest lands.

The Health and Human Services (HHS) appropriations bill stops the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) from implementing ergonomics regulations. The Senate passed the bill on a party-line vote with Democrats, joined by Sen. Specter, opposing it. The ergonomics proposal could affect many agricultural workplaces.

Rep. Richard Pombo (R.-Calif.) has introduced H.R. 4548, his long-awaited reform bill dealing with migrant labor. This legislation creates a new migrant labor program alongside the existing program to demonstrate the value of Farm Bureau-supported reforms.

"We will continue to work for implementation of our organization's policy goals on these issues," said Donaldson.

Pa. GLFCC Sets State Dairy Grazing Field Day

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — On Aug. 23, the Pennsylvania Grazing Lands Forage Conservation Coalition (GLFCC) will sponsor a statewide dairy grazing field day here at Mabarbil Farm operated by Tim and Denise Wetzel.

Tim and Denise milk 85 Holstein cows in a swing parlor. They practice intensive grazing on 242 acres with a good fence and water system.

The morning will feature the following speakers: Karen Sullivan, animal scientist with NRCS in New York; Donald Wild, western New York grazing land specialist with NRCS; and Alan Rotz, agricultural engineer with the USDA ARS Pasture Lab.

Sullivan will discuss feeding programs to optimize milk production on pasture. Wild will discuss water systems for grazing systems. Rotz will discuss the economics of storing feeds for winter feeding programs.

The afternoon will feature a pasture walk on the Wetzel Farm. The pasture walk should end by 2:30 p.m.

Lunch will be provided, but reservations are required by Aug. 16. For reservations, call the Snyder County Conservation District at 570-837-0007 ext. 102.

The Pennsylvania GLFCC, the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), and the Snyder County Conservation District are sponsoring this event.

Directions: From the intersections of Rt. 104 and Rt. 35, go 1.5 miles north on Rt. 35 to the Mabarbil Farm on the left.

Fast, smooth Haybine® performance

The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner has a five-bar reel for more uniform crop flow into the nine-foot cutter bar. The "1465" provides fast reaction time to field obstructions and has an enclosed wobble gearbox for smooth, dependable operation.

Other proven advantages include:

- Conditioner roll drives with straight spline telescoping shafts for extra durability
- A spring-loaded reel drive idler for improved performance, added header durability and less maintenance
- A cutterbar assembly with square back-bar guards, adjustable hold-downs, and a back-hardened knife assembly for long wear and less maintenance

The Model 1465 really is outstanding in the field

Quality 5x5 bales that stay in place

For everyone looking for New Holland quality and 5-ft.-by-5-ft. bales - now you can have both. Our Model 678 Roll-Belt™ round baler makes dense, square-shouldered bales that hold their shape, are stable on hillsides, and stay in place when using a bale spear.

- Roll-Belt design makes uniform bales weighing up to 1,500 lbs.
- Optional Bale Command Plus™ monitoring system makes baling easier than ever
- Mechanical Auto-Wrap™ system provides automatic trouble-free twine tying
- Fastnet™ net-wrap option lets you wrap bales faster and make bales that really stand up to the weather.

Our Drills Hit the Mark

5250 PRO-SYSTEM NO-TILL GRAIN DRILLS

- Precision Residue Openers
- Staggered Rows
- 3" x 13" Press Wheels
- 3/4" Fluted N/T Coulters
- Small Grass Seed Attachment
- Acre Meter
- Available in 13' or 15'
- Equipped With Hooper's Front Wheel Drive For Optimum Weight Transfer And Seed Depth Control

The Krause 5250 PRO-System no-till drill is ideal for either no-till or conventional planting. Featuring the patented Precision Residue Opener, the Krause 5250 no-till drill delivers the most accurate seed depth control available. That's because the Krause 5250 no-till drill has a 3"x13" depth gauging wheel in front of a double-disc opener, followed by an adjustable depth press wheel. The result? Unmatched Seed depth control.

Test customers rated the Advantage Series Tractors:

OUTSTANDING in overall styling and appearance
OUTSTANDING in rear visibility
OUTSTANDING in lift capacity
OUTSTANDING in operator legroom
OUTSTANDING in entry to and exit from operator platform
OUTSTANDING in loader performance

- 8/4 SyncShuttle™ transmission features synchronized shuttle shift for quicker loader work.
- Operator platform is spacious – no levers to straddle.
- Huge fuel tank with left-and right-handed fill ports lets you run 12 hours between refills.
- 17.4 gpm (65.9 L/min) hydraulic flow – standard.
- Independent PTO delivers full advertised horsepower at the proper 540-rpm speeds
- Best of all, these tractors are all John Deere – compare them to the economy-class competitors!

Take This Job and Shove it!

Then pull it,
mow it down!

Kubota's line of incredibly strong and versatile M-Series performance tractors are ideal for pulling, lifting, shoving, cutting, mowing, hay baling and more! Powered by a multi-valve F-TVCS diesel engine for clean, quiet power, the M6800/M8200/M9000 (681/TO1 HP-90/PTO HP) tractors are equipped with a synchro-shuttle transmission and live hydraulic independent PTO. A superbly balanced chassis sharpens maneuverability and a lower center of gravity greatly increases pulling power.

Hanging pedals, easy-to-operate controls, foldable ROPS, deluxe seat and large ISO-mounted operator deck makes any job easy to handle.

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations

Why are some companies desperately trying to sell you chemicals you don't need?

It's all you need. Why spend more?

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready® Soybeans

1. Start clean!

- ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans.
- In double crop, burndown if needed.

2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible.

- The faster the crop canopy the better!

3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical.

- Weeds are usually 4-8" tall and it is 3-5 weeks after planting.
- If weeds are greater than 8", use 1-5 qts.
- Use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds.
- Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds.

Corn Grower Leader Named To U.S.- EU Biotechnology Panel

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) Past President Ryland Utlaug is one of the 10 U.S. representatives recently named to the U.S.-European Union Consultative Forum on Biotechnology.

During President Clinton's trip to Europe late last month, the U.S. and the EU agreed to establish the Consultative Forum to review and assess the issues associated with biotechnology.

The panel includes 20 eminent individuals from outside government who represent a broad cross section of U.S. and European perspectives and interests.

Members will meet twice — once in the U.S. and once in Europe — prior to the December 2000 U.S.-EU summit. At that summit, the forum will present a consensus report assessing biotechnology's benefits and risks, focusing on factors such as economic development, food security, food safety, health, and the environment.

Utlaug farms 3,500 acres of corn, soybeans, and wheat in a family partnership near Grand Pass, Mo. He has been active for about 20 years in both the Missouri and National Corn Growers Associations. He serves as a member of the Agricultural Policy Advisory Committee (APAC), which consults with the U.S. Trade Representative and the USDA on agricultural trade issues.

Utlaug has represented NCGA at various international meetings, including the World Trade Organization ministerials in Geneva and Seattle. During the Seattle meeting, he had the opportunity to become acquainted with Portuguese Association of Maize Producers President Luis Vasconcelos e Souza, his European counterpart, on the Consultative Forum.

"Given the importance of biotechnology to the nation's corn growers and all of agriculture, I welcome the opportunity to serve on the Consultative Forum," Utlaug said. "I look forward to working with the distinguished members of this panel to address the many issues surrounding biotechnology, and I'm hopeful that our dialogue will foster broader awareness and acceptance of biotechnology's many benefits."

Other U.S. members of the Consultative Forum, according to the U.S. State Department are:

- Dr. Norman Borlaug, distinguished professor of international agriculture at Texas A&M University and winner of the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize for his work on the "Green Revolution."

- Dr. Gordon Conway, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and world-renowned agricultural ecologist.

- Dr. Rebecca J. Goldberg, senior scientist at the Environmental Defense Fund.

- Dr. Cutberto Garza, M.D., vice provost at Cornell University and chair of the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academies Institute of Medicine.

- Dr. Jennie Hunter-Cevera, president of the University of Maryland's Biotechnology Institute.

- Terry Medley, J.D., director of regulatory and external affairs for DuPont.

- Dr. Christopher Roland Somerville, director of the Carnegie Institute's Department of Plant Biology at Stanford University.

- Carol Tucker Foreman, director of the Food Policy Institute of the Consumer Federation of America.

- Dr. Le Roy B. Walters, director of the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University.

EU members, as identified by the U.S. State Department, are:

- Dr. Derek Burke, former professor of microbiology at Warwick University and retired chair of the U.K. Advisory Committee on Novel Foods.

- Susan Davies, principal policy adviser of the Consumers' Association.

- Noelle Lenoir, chair of the European Group on Ethics in Science and New Technology, European Union.

- Dan Leskien, adviser to Gesellschaft für Technische Zusammenarbeit and permanent biotechnology adviser to Friends of the Earth.

- Dr. Mans Lonnroth, managing director of MISTRA, the Swedish Foundation for Strategic Environmental Research, and former state secretary at the Swedish Ministry of the Environment.

- Dr. Ruud Lubbers, professor for globalization and sustainable development at the Catholic University Brabant (Tilburg University) and former prime minister of the Netherlands.

- Dr. Pedro Puigdomenech Rosell, research professor at the department of molecular genetics, Instituto de Biología Molecular de Barcelona.

- Dr. Leonardo Santi, president of the Advances Biotechnology Center, Genoa, and chairman of the National Committee for Biosafety and Biotechnology Presidency of Cabinet of Ministers, Rome.

- Luis Vasconcelos e Souza, president of the Portuguese Association of Maize Producers and vice president of the European Association of Maize Producers.

- Dr. Eduard Veltkamp, senior vice president, Business Research Foods, Unilever Research Laboratory Vlaardingen.

Nationwide Market Basket Survey Shows Foods Well Within Established Safety Limits

WILMINGTON, Del. — None of the food samples taken from groceries across the U.S. contain pesticide residues above government limits for a broad class of insecticides, according to a major new year-long survey.

For the past year, DuPont Crop Protection and Aventis Crop Science have joined forces to provide the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) with information from the Carbamate Market Basket Survey. The data have been submitted this month to the EPA, which has said publicly that it will use the information in evaluating dietary risk for the Carbamate class of insecticides.

The survey, which was designed to detect and accurately measure Carbamate insecticide residues in fresh fruits and vegetables purchased by consumers, was conducted over a year-long period and is considered the most comprehensive of its kind. Collection of food samples from grocery stores throughout the contiguous U.S. was completed in January 2000. The survey addresses the EPA's need for residue data in individual foods that are eaten as a single-unit single serving, such as apples and peaches, or a multiple-unit single serving, such as grapes.

"Our purpose was to ensure that realistic residue values from the actual foods we eat were used in the implementation of the U.S. Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA)-mandated risk assessments," said Chuck Baer, DuPont Crop Protection. "Bottom line is that our data accurately reflects the potential dietary and cumulative exposure risks to consumers from use of these products. The results are very positive for the American consumer of all ages."

"These findings are important because we targeted foods eaten by children in particular, as this is one of the important elements of the U.S. Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA)," said Jennifer Phillips, a risk assessment scientist for Aventis and a task force team member.

The results are extremely positive. They show:

- The vast majority — 90 percent — of all samples analyzed have no residues or residue levels below one part per billion.

- Of the 10 percent or so of samples with detectable residues, all were well below government safety limits for various foods.

- When looking at the data collected, the residues are very low, ranging from five to more than over 35,000 times less than the EPA-established tolerance (allowable limit).

- From a cumulative risk standpoint, less than 0.4 percent of the samples had residues of more than one Carbamate insecticide.

As registrants of carbamate-containing insecticides, both DuPont and Aventis believe this work will ensure that sound science is used in the FQPA assessment. The analysis is considered one of the most detailed of its kind, including hundreds of samples for each of the eight different crops: apples, tomatoes, lettuce, grapes, peaches, broccoli, oranges, and bananas.

To ensure validity of the resultant data, the Carbamate Market Basket Survey Task Force used an EPA-approved statistical sampling design for collecting the commodities as well as employing the USDA-PDP protocol for preparation procedures — that is washing, peeling, coring — for all the fruits and vegetables prior to the analysis.

The final test results were submitted to the EPA in May.

Important Ag Measures Pass Both Houses

GLENMONT, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau, the state's largest general farm advocacy organization, is pleased with legislation that supports the Department of Agriculture and Market's Agricultural Environmental Management program and the indemnification of county soil and water conservation district employees, who provide technical advice and assistance at the request of state agencies.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chair Nancy Lorraine Hoffmann and Assembly Agriculture Committee Chair William Magee have been instrumental in their support for these efforts. Both bills await Gov. George E. Pataki's approval.

"The passage of these two bills in both the Senate and the Assembly is significant for the agricultural industry and water quality for the entire state," said John W. Lincoln, president of New York Farm Bureau. "Soil and water conservation employees deserve this much needed liability protection, as they help farmers and state agencies to improve and preserve our water quality."

The Agricultural Environmental Management (AEM) legislation will use a voluntary, case-by-case approach to water quality improvement, with an emphasis on local farmer involvement. AEM will bring technical expertise together with financial assistance to ensure that we maintain our state's water supply.

Programs that are similar in concept to AEM have already been successfully implemented in areas such as the New York City Watershed, the Lake Champlain Watershed, and the Skaneateles Watershed. These programs place New York State as a leader in incorporating this type of program for the betterment of agriculture and water quality.

"This bill was a priority for all districts in the state," said Anita Cartin, executive vice president of the New York Association of Soil Districts. "This is historic legislation that acknowledges the role of Soil and Water Conservation Districts as the local delivery system of State agencies. We appreciate New York Farm Bureau's role and support on this issue."

Pork Database To Allow For Comparative Analysis Of Production

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Pork producers now have a way to compare their production practices with comparable operations using the new checkoff-funded National Pork Database.

The database, which went live on June 1, contains information submitted based on pork production and financial standards. The checkoff-funded standards were derived by producer-led committees to identify common terms and formulas that are uniform and could be used by all producers.

The Pork Production and Financial Standards were completed last year and tested with pilot classes of producers, according to Jenny Felt, special programs manager for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC). The National Pork Database is composed of producers' records based on the standards.

The value of the standards to producers is they provide uniformity and will permit the collection of data for historical tracking and comparative analysis. Over time, benchmarks will be developed from the data collected from producers.

"Both production and financial benchmarks will allow producers and their consultants to better understand the impact of production practices, new technology, debt, equity and capital on their operations," Felt said. "As producers learn more about their operations, they will be able to ask more of the right questions to get the information needed to guide their decisions."

"It is up to all pork industry stakeholders to seize this opportunity and adopt standard terminology and financial accounting practices so that we can communicate the information and use our knowledge to explore ways of achieving and maintaining our competitive advantages in a rapidly changing world," according to John Kellogg, a producer from Yorkville, Ill., and National Pork Board president.

The National Pork Database and Pork Production and Financial Standards were announced during World Pork Expo, June 8-10, in Indianapolis, Ind.

For more information on the database and standards, contact Jenny Felt, special programs manager, at (515) 223-2771.

Victory Gardener Coming To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Roger Swain, host of TV's "The Victory Garden," will be the featured speaker at the Oct. 21 Rites of Fall gardening seminar sponsored by the Adams County Master Gardeners.

Swain, now in his 13th year as host of the popular show, will discuss fall gardening tips that will help ensure a better garden next spring.

In addition to doing his TV show, Swain is a prolific and widely read writer. His books — which he will be available to sign — include "Earthly Pleasures: Tales from a Biologists Garden," "Field Days: Journal of an Itinerant Biologist," "The Practical Gardener," and, most recently, "Groundwork: a Gardener's Ecology."

Richard M. Koogle of Lillypops Water Gardens is also on the program. He will discuss "The Fall Water Garden" and answer questions about this rapidly growing area of gardener interest.

Koogle, who has appeared on "Good Morning America," and the "Fox Morning Show," is an adviser for Ortho's "Garden Ponds and Fountains" and Taylor's "Weekend Garden Guide." He has lectured extensively before the American Association of Nurserymen and other professional organizations.

In addition to the keynote speakers, experts will conduct several educational workshops. Educational hour credits are available for Master Gardeners.

The 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. seminar will be at the new Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resources Center in Gettysburg. Seating is limited and participation in this third annual event is by advance registration only.

A $35 fee covers all costs including a continental breakfast, lunch, and refreshments.

"THE MANURE SYSTEM OF THE FUTURE"

There are answers to your manure handling problems such as: ODOR, RUNOFF, NUTRIENT BUILD-UP, SOLIDS BUILD-UP,
STORAGE, AND SOIL COMPACTION.
The NC Nutrient Control System is a proven four-part approach to manure management.
All phases of the nutrient cycle are addressed and mastered by means of a MECHANICAL SOLIDS SEPARATOR, an AERATOR, a PULSE-JET for liquids, and COMPOSTING for solids. If you are concerned about NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT, call us...

"This Mixer Really Mixes Hay"
- Willis Conrad, Jr., Cedar Lane Farm

"We feed 8 lbs. of hay per cow. Our old Oswalt 250 couldn't handle that kind of volume. This Rotomix 354 that we got from Lapp's Barn Equipment, mounted on a 1980 International truck, does a great job. It handles 600 lb. of hay by weight."

Willis Conrad, Jr. is farm manager of Cedar Lane Farm owned by the Tucker Johnson family. They're milking 270 head kept in a tie stall barn, with a herd average of 28,200

CUSTOM MIX PROGRAM

OPTIONS IN FEEDING

Your Dairy Herd

Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency. Because you needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals.

- | | | |
|-------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------|
| • Amino Acids | • Calcium | • Multi-Protein Sources |
| • Protein | • Phosphorus | • Added Animal Fat |
| • By-Pass Protein | • Salt | • Rumen Inert Fats |
| • Energy | • Vitamins & Trace Minerals | • Buffers |
| • Fiber | • Organic Trace Minerals | • Yeast |

Clean Start, MD
We are pleased to announce our joining forces with three other prominent growers and suppliers to form now what is called, Plant Technologies. This joint venture was established to provide growers with true-to-type, registered strawberry plugs, Clean Start, MD, which are grown under the strictest standards. The plants being propagated in a controlled environment allows them to be protected from transmitted virus diseases. To ensure the virus-free status and quality of the plants, the growing conditions are monitored and inspected by trained personnel from both the MD and NJ Department of Agriculture.

CONSTRUCTION BIDS WANTED: (2) Timber Frame Barns in Greenwood, NY. Being Rehabilitated. Call for Bid Description 607-478-5171

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Lancaster Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of an Agricultural Waste Management System in Colerain Township. The project includes a concrete lined waste storage pond and barnyard runoff control work, to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program.

Prospective contractors can receive a bid package, which contains Instructions to Bidders, the Plans for the Project, and a Bid Sheet Construction standards and specifications are contained in the Contractor's Handbook, Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program, dated February 1998. These are to be considered part of the contract package, and need to be used during project installation.

Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

The site showing will take place on Wednesday, July 19, 2000, 11:00 AM, at the project site. Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening in the Conference Room of the Farm & Home Center on August 2, 2000 at 9:00 a.m.

Bid packages and/or the Contractor's Handbook will be available at site showings, or by contacting the Lancaster County Conservation District office in room 6 of the Farm & Home Center at:

1383 Arcadia Road
Lancaster, PA 17601

WITH 31 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE AS A CAI AUCTIONEER & REALTOR, I CAN HELP YOU MAKE THE PROPER DECISION.
A VISIT TO EXPLAIN WILL COST YOU NOTHING.

SNYDER CO. OWNER SAYS SELL. This dairy farm is ideal for beef, sheep, goats and or dairy again The cropland is ideal for produce The farm produce auction close by makes this a viable use The farm house is large and is a 4 or 5 bedroom home with a modern kitchen and pantry Wildlife abounds and the area is semi-private Owner says he'll consider a reasonable offer with quick possession

TIOGA CO. - The last farm in the upper counties I have left All the others are SOLD and have happy owners This farm was poultry and hog but let your imagination go to work This farm has great potential for veal, U-Store-It or go back to poultry Broilers or high rise layers Maybe even Breeder flocks The income from Breeder stock is very lucrative The price is open to any reasonable offer with immediate possession

SCHUYLKILL CO. - This small acreage farm has a modern veal and broiler operation with a new contract with Vineland Kosher for the broilers and the veal contract is ongoing The owner says sell now he will consider a reasonable offer He's moving to Eastern Bradford and has a farm picked out School bells will soon be ringing again and the motivation is great This one is a good money maker You won't need an outside job The home is real nice and has a large living-rec room

My needs list continues to grow. I have waiting buyers for Union, Snyder, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry, Juniata, Berks and most any central PA Counties. Buyers for mountain land, cabins, large tracts with or without buildings. I need a large 250 to 300 acre dairy below Williamsport.

My listings turn to "SOLD."

DAIRY FINANCIAL And EXPANSION SERVICES

If you believe in the "Managing Change" and are considering "Right Sizing" your dairy, Purina can help you meet your goals, not just maximize the amount of money you borrow.

For example, consider our:

Feasibility & Project Frame-up Service

Helps determine if expansion is for you.

Onsite detailed review of areas critical to the success of your specific expansion.

Dairy Financial Projection Model

Detailed Evaluation Tool - Helps quantify key information to help you better understand your current financial position.

Planning Tool - It helps you work through areas critical to planning and staging your personalized growth and improvement plan.

- Parlor Sizing, Cow Flow, Feed Usage
- Loan Packages/Structuring
- Financials (cash flow, equity requirements, etc.)

Sensitivity Analysis - Looks at the effect of critical factors on cash flow (e.g., Milk Price and Production Level, Cost of Feedstuffs, Culling Rate, Purchase Price of Cattle).

Budgeting - Develops 7 year projections for existing and/or new dairies that reflect realistic cow flow, seasonal variation in milk production, etc.
